Most 1946 Cars to Stay At '42 Level

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(UP)—Most new cars made this year or designated as 1946 models probably will not cost the public more than 1942 model selling prices. Price Administrator Bowles said tonight in announcing price ceiling formulae.

The formulae will be based on 1941 costs, plus basic wage and material price increases since then, plus "a normal peacetime margin of profit."

The profit will be based either on the manufacturer's own 1936-1939 margin or one-half the industry average for that period, whichever is higher.

Bowles said OPA had been studying cost trends affecting the automobile industry for the past several months and it had gathered "as much information as it could" rapidly changing circumstances have permitted.

"On the basis of this admittedly incomplete information," he added, "it seems most unlikely to me that there will be any general increase in the factory level of automobiles."

Pointing out that OPA's reconversion formulae were to be applied by each manufacturer on the basis of his own experience, he said that, if any, ceiling increases are called for by OPA's pricing rules, they will be granted.

He said if he was wrong in his present expectation and there should be a general increase in factory prices, OPA's rules would be to determine whether automobile dealers could "reasonably" absorb all or part of the costs.

NO WORRY FOR PUBLIC
"In view of the foregoing," Bowles said, "it is a fair assumption that the public is unlikely to pay more for most 1946 model cars than the present ceilings on the 1942 model—minus the retail charges that were allowed beginning early in 1942 to cover added costs to dealers from rationing."

OPA explained that, when Bowles referred to "1946 model cars," he meant new cars produced this year or those designated as "1946 models." "If, however, manufacturers make any substantial changes from the 1942 models which result in net increases or decreases in costs," Bowles said, "OPA will provide for increases or decreases in ceilings."

Any such increase, he said, naturally need not be absorbed by dealers.

Bowles said manufacturers now were working out application of the pricing formulae to their 1946 models. These dollar-and-cent prices will be submitted to OPA and therefore, the administrator said, it was "obviously impossible" to say now what changes in present ceilings, if any, might result.

INDIA FORGIVES MISLED TROOPS

LONDON, Aug. 27.—(P)—The All-India radio said today that the Indian government had decided to treat with mercy and generosity the rank and file soldiers who were so misguided as to join the forces of the enemy.

"But the government will allow the law to take its course and will try by court-martial leaders and those who were guilty of particularly heavy crimes," the broadcast said.

Dean Kelly
Refuses
To Resign

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 27.—"If the city of Augusta had a new hospital authority, the medical school wouldn't need a new dean."

With this explanation, Dean Lombard Kelly, of the University of Georgia School of Medicine, today flatly turned down a proposal that the heated controversy between himself and the Cracker Party be resolved in a compromise whereunder both he and Augusta's hospital authority would resign.

"I have no idea of resigning," said Dr. Kelly. "The Board of Regents can kick me off if they want to, but I haven't the slightest idea of resigning or of relinquishing one iota of my authority."

Then Dean Kelly modified his statement a bit and gave two conditions under which his resignation would be forthcoming. They were:

(a) Approval of the School of Medicine is withdrawn by the accredited agencies;

(b) Roy Harris takes the oath of governor of Georgia.

At his home in Athens, Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the University System of Georgia, said he would have no comment on the editorial charges until after a conference tomorrow morning in Atlanta with Marion Smith, chairman of the board of regents.

Storm Rips Texas Town In Fury

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 27.—(P)—Bay City, a town of 6,600 population about 60 miles southwest of Houston, is being torn apart by a 100-mile-an-hour wind as the destructive tropical storm haunting the Texas coast for the past four days headed inland tonight.

Damage, already running into millions of dollars, increased hourly as reports trickled in over crippled communications. Only two deaths so far have been attributed directly to the storm.

The air in Bay City is filled with sheet metal and debris, the Houston Post's correspondent telephoned. "Terrific gusts were reported unroofing buildings and uprooting trees; streets were standing six inches to two feet in water. Only one highway remained open."

Similar reports came from other towns as thousands left coastal homes for inland refuge.

The latest weather bureau advisory, issued at 6 p.m. (Atlanta Time), said the storm at that hour was centered 15 miles northeast of Palacios, continuing in a north-easterly direction. The storm was nosing inland rapidly in the direction of a densely populated area farther west, 400 miles of coastal country with hurricane and torrential rains.

Palacios, population 2,288, is about 90 miles southwest of Houston. Heavy property damage was reported in that section. Camp Hulien, formerly used as an artillery training center, is in the area.

Rockport, population 1,729, reported many houses and buildings unroofed by wind ranging up to 135 miles an hour. The damage there was placed at a half million dollars.

Port Lavaca suffered damage to every house and building. Many were destroyed completely. The town of 2,069 is about 100 miles northeast of Corpus Christi—apparently bypassed.

OPA's Reconversion Price Program Called 'Squeeze' on U. S. Merchants

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(UP)—One of the OPA's own committees tonight denounced the agency's reconversion price-ceiling program as a "squeeze" which will force the nation's storekeepers to pay the cost of encouraging civilian production.

The group, the OPA-Retail Reconversion Pricing Committee, was chosen by OPA's Consumer Goods Price Division last month to study the effect of OPA's cost absorption principle on the retail industry. The committee, in turn, asked two economists, Dr. Jules Backman, New York University School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance, and Martin R. Gainsburgh, chief accountant of the National Industrial Conference Board, to "prepare a case" for the retailers.

Their findings will be presented to OPA tomorrow.

The committee, which includes members of the American Retail Federation, said the economists reported that OPA's price control program for the transition period "rests upon a series of unwarranted assumptions," that the policy of rigid price control, while wage increases are permitted or encouraged, is "doomed to failure."

The committee said in statement that "the squeeze OPA has been tightening on the nation's merchants to cover up higher costs for labor and raw materials without raising prices to consumers has gone about as far as it can."

OPA's new formula to hold retail prices down through a "cost absorption" theory was approved by the Office of Economic Stabilization Saturday for the entire field of reconversion. In announcing the formula, OPA promised that aluminum ware, washing machines, and irons would return to the market at about 1942 prices.

The formula provides that OPA will grant price increases to manufacturers to compensate them for increased costs since 1941 when necessary to stimulate production. But increases instead of being passed along to consumers, must be absorbed by wholesalers and retailers when their margins of profit permit.

The committee said the merchants "will not have sufficient margin left to absorb increased costs for merchandise and still let government price controllers hold the line at only the consumer level."

It quoted its economists as saying that rigid control of almost all prices "will impair the incentive to produce and thus adversely affect the number of jobs as well as the supply of civilian goods."

They further stated, in answer to charges that retailers are making greater profits than ever, that 85 per cent of retailing's wartime profits resulted directly from services to customers that had to be dropped during the war, but will now be resumed—and that they are services "that will provide many of the jobs for returning war veterans and peacetime reconversion."

"Thus most of their profit margin automatically will cease to exist during this next transition year," they said. They also pointed out that reported profits before taxes for retail corporations were "substantially below" wartime earnings of all other corporations.

Figures were presented to document the "squeeze" which the committee said OPA started putting on retailers in 1942. So far this year, it said, OPA has allowed 54 general increases in costs of merchandise—all but three of these the merchant has had to pay out of his own pocketbook since he must continue to sell at his wartime ceilings.

The committee also pointed out that, during 1945, OPA has allowed 3,911 special price advances for individual manufacturers, processors, etc.—"increases which also must be paid by the nation's storekeepers." These "special reliefs" so far this year exceeded by more than three times the total of similar advances in costs in 1942, it said.

Clear, Partly Cloudy
Forecast Here Today
Clear to partly cloudy weather is seen for the Atlanta area today by A. J. Knarr, forecaster at the municipal airport.

Moderate temperature is expected, the mercury probably reaching 88 degrees. Yesterday the high was 87, the low 64.

Crash Kills 20 on Okinawa

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—A large American transport plane bound for Atsugi airfield crashed on the Okinawa airfield runway tonight, "killing approximately 20 Americans and destroying valuable communications equipment," NBC's Bob Shapiro reported by radio from Okinawa.

The WFA not only withdrew its order of January 8 freezing all chickens for use of the armed forces in the seven counties in the Gainesville area, but other orders affecting chicken procurement in Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Missouri. It ended all controls in North Carolina.

Local and Gainesville WFA officials have not been notified as to what controls remain. All obligations during the life of the order suspended yesterday will be met by the government.

SURRENDER ACTION—This Japanese destroyer, the Hatsuzakura, lays to in Sagami bay as Nipponese emissaries go over the side into a motor launch (right) for transfer to the U. S. destroyer Nicholas, which took them to conference aboard the U. S. battleship Missouri, where Jap surrender terms will be signed. The Jap warship was dwarfed by the mighty show of strength U. S. Navy crowded into the bay.

South on Threshold of Greatest Era In Expansion, Ramspeck Declares

The south is on the threshold of the greatest expansion of business in its history, but businessmen everywhere must supply the jobs unless this country returns to the "made-work program" of the thirties, Rep. Ramspeck, of the fifth congressional district, told members of the Atlanta Rotary Club yesterday.

"Our section of the country has the greatest opportunity for growth as we go into the postwar period," Ramspeck said. "In Atlanta there will be great growth, but there will be added responsibility, and the city will have to meet it."

The congressman quoted a vice president of a large aluminum company as saying there won't be any trouble expanding southern industry, because the native population is easily trained and resources can be developed.

"We are entering the postwar period and I believe it will be the most difficult period this country has passed through. The problems before the nation now are more difficult for solution than the war problems. In congress during the war there was unity and less politics. Now that the war is over we have to unscramble eggs."

It is important to realize that you businessmen are obligated to make jobs for people who want to work and are able to work," he continued. "We don't want the United States to return to the made-work program again. Business must solve the problem if you want to avoid a repetition of that program."

Ramspeck told the businessmen they would find a "favorable climate" and a friendly administration in Washington. President Truman and the congress are anxious to co-operate with business, he said, and to afford every possible opportunity for free, private enterprise.

When congress reconvenes next week it will be faced with proposed legislation dealing with unemployment compensation, supplement of state funds, extension of social security, the appointment of a single administrator of government surplus properties and the reorganization of departments and agencies of government by the President.

The representative said he was "unalterably opposed" to the Fair Employment Practice Committee. Those who are in favor of the legislation view the proposal from a "theoretical or sentimental standpoint," he said. The FEPC would not cure a wrong but make a greater wrong, he added.

"We have embarked upon a policy of keeping peace," he said. "With the atomic bomb we cannot afford another war. We must earn the art of living together peacefully. It can be done and we must do it."

Ramspeck was introduced by Robert Troutman, a member of the Rotary Club, and Ned Mellett, president, presided.

Business Brighteners More Firms Moving to Georgia; Others Plan to Expand Facilities

By BILL BORING.
The Constitution's business survey for Georgia produced these new brighteners yesterday:

The Johnson & Johnson Company plant at Gainesville, which for many years has been a model for industrial planners, will add to its facilities by the erection of a plastic weaving mill.

The company already has purchased a tract of land for the plant, which will produce screen wire, draperies and various fabrics for upholstery and for use in other household utilities.

Meanwhile, the Auto-Soler company, of Atlanta, which has enlarged and accelerated itself from wire, draperies and various fabrics, is back in peacetime production. Auto-Soler, which manufactures high-speed machines for nailing leather, wood and plastic products, employs 110 people, having climbed solidly from a total of three at its beginning a decade ago. Seventy per cent of its employment view the proposal from a "theoretical or sentimental standpoint," he said. The FEPC would not cure a wrong but make a greater wrong, he added.

"We have embarked upon a policy of keeping peace," he said. "With the atomic bomb we cannot afford another war. We must earn the art of living together peacefully. It can be done and we must do it."

Ramspeck was introduced by Robert Troutman, a member of the Rotary Club, and Ned Mellett, president, presided.

Those 'STARS OF HONOR' FOR HEROES
SELLING FAST AT CONSTITUTION DESK
Sisters, mothers and fathers, wives and sweethearts of servicemen have responded heartily to the news of the sale of the silver Star of Honor.

Yesterday several persons bought as many as five stars, one for each serviceman. This means that hundreds of homecoming servicemen will be told without words that they're not forgotten men. The Star of Honor on the lapels of the people who stayed at home is a pledge of honor, of loyalty and devotion.

Simple and dignified, the star is made of sterling silver.

The Constitution has obtained a limited quantity for sale for a short time. The stars can be purchased at the want-ad desk for 20 cents, plus two cents federal tax, or ordered by mail for 25 cents (the extra three cents covers mailing and handling).

Allied Fleet Units Push Into Tokyo Bay To Prepare Landings

MANILA, Tuesday, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Airborne American units landed in Japan and strong naval forces steamed into Tokyo bay today in a historic first occupation of the conquered enemy country.

The first airborne forces, 150 American engineers and communications experts in 48 big transports and Flying Fortresses, began landing at the Atsugi airdrome, 18 miles southwest of Tokyo at 9 a. m. (7 p. m. yesterday Atlanta time).

They immediately began setting up radio facilities and preparing the airfield for the mass arrival of more than 7,500 airborne troopers, headed by Gen. MacArthur, Thursday (Japan time).

Shortly afterward, word was flashed from the Third Fleet that a strong task force headed by Rear Adm. Oscar C. Badger in the cruiser San Diego, had left the fleet anchorage in Sagami bay and steamed into Tokyo bay.

Task Force in Tokyo Waters
The battleship Iowa followed the San Diego through the narrow Uraga strait into the Japanese capital's home waters.

This naval force was to prepare the way for Thursday's formal occupation of the big Yokosuka naval base inside Tokyo bay by 10,000 sailors and Marines.

The first force is scheduled to go ashore on three tiny islands in the mouth of the bay and see that they are completely neutralized before the main body of the fleet moves in.

Winding through the newly swept waters of the strait, which only yesterday were heavily mined, the American ships sailed serenely past bristling big guns that stood silent and immobilized in accordance with Halsey's orders to the Japanese. Each American ship had a Japanese pilot aboard.

The 55,000-ton battleship Missouri, aboard which the formal surrender articles are to be signed Sunday, still rode at anchor in Sagami bay, 20 miles around Mirua peninsula from Tokyo bay and only nine miles south of Atsugi airport, where the first troops had landed.

Spearhead Works on Signals
The Thursday arrivals will include Gen. MacArthur and his staff. The advanced party brought in special equipment for immediate contact with the advancing staging area, Okinawa, from which the party took off.

Atsugi's airfield, like all other Japanese airfields, is barely large enough for American planes. The technicians went to work to render it as ample as possible in a short time.

Col. John H. Lackey Jr., of Norfolk, Va., commander of the 317th Troop Carrier Group, piloted the lead plane.

Col. Charles Tench took over the task of supervising Japanese preparations as previously detailed by the document handed the Japanese emissaries in Manila 10 days ago.

Three planes carried parts of a radio station which the personnel was trained to complete within an hour of landing.

Col. Samuel S. Auchincloss, of Tryon, N. C., commanded the communications section which was to take over all necessary Japanese facilities. The engineer group will co-ordinate transportation and provide general operation facilities.

Col. C. R. Hutchinson directed the location and preparation of pleased at the order, but some were said to be jittery as to the effect it might have on the market. The OPA ceiling price of 20 cents per pound remains in effect.

T. H. Miller, of the Tennessee Egg company here, one of the large processors, said that the Gainesville area had been producing about 1,000,000 pounds of dressed chickens weekly. He said that up to two months ago, while the Army was taking 100 per cent of production, the chicken shortage here had been acute, but that since then the Army had been releasing a certain proportion of its supplies for civilian consumption.

He anticipated that some time between now and Christmas there would be another period of short supplies, occasioned by the July-August shortage of eggs and the consequent shortage of baby chicks. He expected that normal market operations would be back in force by the first of the year.

Under the procurement order about 200,000,000 pounds of chickens, principally broilers, had been obtained in the areas affected, primarily for the armed forces, since it went into effect.

The department ended entirely a program put into operation Aug. 13, under which about 5,000,000 pounds of canned chickens were procured in Oklahoma, Texas and midwestern states.

Also ended was an order under which the nation's chicken canning facilities were to go back on Oct. 1 to janning poultry for the armed forces. This order had been suspended July 31 and today's action cancelled it.

All that is now left of direct controls over poultry procurement is an order affecting 23 states, mostly in the midwest, under which turkeys are being procured for the armed forces.

The midwest chicken-buying program begun earlier this month had been designed to take the burden off the eastern states and spread the load across the country. An earlier than expected ending of the war made it unnecessary to continue it.

LIKE MAGIC CARPET

Speedy Air Runs to Link City With Latin America

The following is the first in a series of articles on aviation expansion as it affects Atlanta and the southeast.

By DUPONT WRIGHT
Constitution Staff Writer

MIAMI, Aug. 27.—Pan-American Clippers traveling at the slithering speed of 500 miles per hour soon will be winging their way between this gateway to Latin America and Chicago, with every likelihood of stopovers in Atlanta, if plans of Pan-American Airways are approved by the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Thus a golden dragnet of the Magic Carpet of Bagdad, it plans to go through, will be laid down to connect Atlanta directly with the Tropics of Capricorn and intermediate points. Pan American, Eastern and Delta airlines all foresee great expansion of business between South America and the southeast. They are preparing for it. Inventions mothered by the war will not be allowed to lie buried in the patent office, but will be put to use in the brave new peacetime world as soon as possible, they say. Shippers, as well as travelers, as fast becoming air-minded and realize as never before, they point out, the truth of Poor Richard's dictum that time is money.

1,500-MILE SPAN

If the CAA approves Pan American plans, the faster planes will go from Miami to Chicago in three hours and 15 minutes' flying time—three hours and 15 minutes!

A distance of about 1,500 miles! The plane that will do it, that will go after the record of the Magic Carpet, is Howard Hughes' Lockheed Constellation, which recently crossed the continent in about six hours. It will carry 62 passengers.

Other planes planned for the Miami-Atlanta-Chicago service will be the DC-7, carrying 108 passengers, and the Army C-54, also known as the DC-4. The new Consolidated Vultee, carrying 204 passengers, also figures in the plans.

Hitherto, Pan American has flown only on transoceanic routes.

MORE LUCRATIVE

"But domestic flying is far more lucrative," said W. L. Morrison, vice president of Pan American's Latin-American division, "because at present we not only have to build and maintain our own airports, but keep up our own communications system and our own weather bureaus, which work in collaboration with those of the U. S. and other governments. On the other hand, practically every American city maintains its own airport, and, on domestic routes, we should be relieved of the expense of weather bureaus and could use established communications systems."

If the plan goes through, Atlantians could reach Miami a little more than an hour and Chicago in about two hours. Yellow Tails and Red Snappers caught off Miami Beach could be served in Atlanta clubs for luncheon. The 25,000 Georgians and former Georgians in Miami could read The Atlanta Constitution at the breakfast table. And so on, it was pointed out.

Pan American's plan follows closely on CAA approval of additional plane services between Miami and points north by Eastern and Delta.

Suwanee Revival

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 27.—Plans have been perfected for a revival at the Suwanee Methodist church throughout the coming week. Pastors from Buford, Chipcoke, Duluth and Lawrenceville, will be guest speakers. Services will be held both morning and evening it is stated.

FIRST MAJOR ARMY UNIT TO BE INACTIVATED—Maj. Gen. Frank L. Culin Jr., commanding general of the 87th "Golden Acorn" Division, tells his men at Fort Benning that theirs is to be the first United States infantry division inactivated. The 87th, recently returned from the European theater with plans to retrain for the Pacific, is based at Fort Benning, where it will undergo inactivation proceedings immediately.

87th Division Is Broken Up At Ft. Benning

PORT BENNING, Ga., Aug. 27. (P)—The 87th ("Golden Acorn") Division, originally scheduled for redeployment to the Pacific, today became the first division to be inactivated since the war's end.

Maj. Gen. Frank L. Culin Jr., commanding general of the 87th, told the 10,000 members of the division this morning that while inactivation meant the "death" of the 87th as a division, it did not mean that they would be discharged immediately.

The men of the 87th, who fought through France and Germany to the Czechoslovakian border, will be sent to other army units and posts, Gen. Culin said.

Men with 85 points or more have already been discharged, and most members of the division have less than 75 points—not enough for discharge.

The 87th Division was activated at Camp McCain, Miss., in December, 1942 and went overseas last October. During 154 days of almost continuous action, which began last December on the Metz front, the "Golden Acorn" fought in France, Belgium, Luxembourg and Germany.

The division was rushed into Belgium last December to meet the threat of Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's counter-offensive during the "Battle of the Bulge."

The number of farms in Georgia, as well as the number of Georgia acres devoted to farming is on the increase, according to a report just made by the Census Bureau for the states of the South Atlantic region.

This survey shows that in Georgia there are now 210,608 farms, an increase of 6.9 per cent over 1940. These farms contain a total acreage of 22,495,652, an increase of 4.8 per cent over 1940.

During these five years, the entire South Atlantic region shows a gain of about 40,000 farms and an increased acreage of 4,600,000.

Six Georgians To See Japs Quit

Seaman Thomas Eugene Jones, of Atlanta, and Gunner's Mate Talmadge V. Tucker, of Warm Springs, are serving aboard the USS Missouri, making a total of six Georgians who will witness the historic surrender of the Japanese.

Seaman Jones, son of Mr. S. R. D. Jones, of 7 Whitley street, S. E., is a gunner on the famous ship. A graduate of College Park High school, he was employed by the Atlanta Linen Company for a brief period prior to entering the Navy two years ago.

Gunner's Mate Tucker, USN, entered the Navy in February, 1941, and served for two and one-half years aboard the USS North Carolina before being sent to Washington, D. C., for further training. In June, 1944, when the Missouri was launched, he became a part of her crew.

Son of Mrs. Sallie Tucker and brother of two men in the armed forces, he was formerly employed at the Warm Springs Foundation.

The division was rushed into Belgium last December to meet the threat of Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's counter-offensive during the "Battle of the Bulge."

MOTHER 'DOING WELL'

Scant Hope Held for Life Of Arizona's Siamese Twins

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 27.—(P)—Authorities at St. Monica's hospital, where physicians are waging a battle for the lives of Louise and Macila Miranda, the Siamese twins born late Saturday at Avondale to Mrs. Rita Miranda, today held scant hope for survival of the infants, first Siamese twins reported in Arizona.

The Rev. Emmett McLoughlin, the infants to the hospital and is superintendent at the hospital, said physicians believe the umbilical cord below the joining of the babies must burst due to intestinal pressure or become infected. He said X-rays, scheduled to be taken today, have been postponed because the barium which would have to be fed the twins would cause increased pressure.

Father McLoughlin said the doctors believe the twins are joined organically. He added they are of almost identical size and their combined weight is eight pounds, nine ounces.

The babies, born at the home of their parents in nearby Avondale and rushed to the hospital, are joined at the lower abdomen. They have a single umbilical cord. The mother did not accompany CLAXTON, Ga., Aug. 27.—(UP)—A three-man committee has gone to work on the program of the Georgia Press Association convention, which will take place on September 21-22 at the Biltmore hotel in Atlanta. R. E. L. Majors, president, stated today.

Committee members are Belmont Dennis, editor of the Covington News; Albert Hardy, editor and publisher of the Gainesville News; and W. R. Frier, editor and publisher of the Bartow Herald, Cartersville.
Dennis, now first vice president of the association, is slated for election as president, succeeding Editor Majors, of the Claxton Enterprise, who is completing his second term in office.

Man Loses Eye in Shooting After Burglary Scare

Paul S. Brown, 47, of 939 Washington street, S. W., was critically injured early yesterday when a bullet pierced his right temple and put out his right eye during the commotion following a burglary scare in the neighborhood.
According to the story told Patrolmen R. S. Stripling and R. W. Edmondson, R. E. Harper, of 925 Washington street, S. W., fired several shots at a Negro who tried to enter his house.
A short time later Harper and several neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. E. E. South at 935 Washington street to discuss the incident. During the talk, police said they were told, several shots were fired when someone heard a noise outside.
Awakened from his sleep in the next house by the commotion, Brown went to investigate and said as he was peering in Mrs. South's window, a bullet struck him in the temple and lodged in his left jaw.

Harper told police that when he heard the noise at Mrs. South's window he shouted a warning and then fired the shots. After Brown yelled, Harper and his brother-in-law, J. D. Swann, went into the yard and found Brown. They took him to Grady hospital. Police booked a charge of "suspicion of shooting" against Harper.
Later, a Negro named J. D. Bailey, 34, of the rear of 990 Pryor street, S. W., went to the hospital for treatment for a wound in the back. Police held him on charges of suspicion in the Harper burglary attempt, but the Negro said he received the wound in a crap game fight on McDaniel street.

Jap 'Tiger of Malaya' Ready To Give Up Luzon Troops

MANILA, Aug. 27.—(INS)—Japan's greatest field general, Tomoyuki Yamashita, who gloried in the title "Tiger of Malaya," opened negotiations for surrender of his troops on Luzon today.

At the same time Maj. Gen. Yaguchi took the first steps toward surrendering between 8,500 and 10,000 Jap troops in the Cagayan valley of northern Luzon, and garrisons on bypassed central Pacific islands were laying down their arms.

Yamashita opened negotiations in a letter to Maj. Gen. William H. Gill, commander of the hard-fighting 32d (Red Arrow) division, which has seen more than 600 days of combat.

The die-hard commander acknowledged letters from Gen. Gill dropped from planes Aug. 24 and 25 in accordance with arrangements made by official Japanese surrender emissaries. He said he had received a cease-fire order Aug. 20 and had complied with it so far as he was able to contact his scattered troops.

"I also wish to add at this point," Yamashita wrote, "my heartfelt gratitude to you, fully cognizant of the sincere efforts and deep concern you continuously have shown with reference to cessation of hostilities, as evidenced by the various steps and measures you have taken.

"To date of writing, however, I have failed to receive orders from imperial headquarters authorizing me to enter into direct negotiations here in the Philippines with the United States Army concerning carrying out the order for cessation of hostilities. But I am of the fond belief that upon receipt of this order negotiations can be immediately entered into.

"Presenting my compliments, and thanking you for your courteous letter, I remain yours respectfully."

Maj. Gen. Yaguchi was negotiating for surrender of his Cagayan valley forces, consisting of a division plus a brigade, to the 37th (Ohio) Division, which made one of the most dramatic sustained drives of the Luzon campaign to smash the main enemy positions in the valley.

Wife Clubbed To Death by Father-in-Law

MEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 27.—(UP)—An attractive young wife was clubbed to death with a baseball bat wielded by her elderly father-in-law today after she allegedly sicked her dog on him during a family argument.

Mrs. Theresa Rubera, 31, died at a hospital shortly after being assaulted on the front porch of her home. Her father-in-law, Paul Rubera, 72, was arrested and held on a murder charge.

"She talked fresh," Rubera said, "when she sicked the dog on me. I got a bat from the attic and hit her two, three, four, maybe six times. I don't know how many."

Neighbors, attracted by the woman's hysterical screams, finally overpowered Rubera and took away the bat.

The elderly man told police the beating followed several weeks of wrangling over his late wife's estate. When she died seven months ago, Rubera said, he asked his daughter, Josephine, 24, his son Salvatore, and the latter's wife Theresa to move into his home.

Since then numerous arguments arose from discussion of the estate, and he said he believed his children were trying to deprive him of his share.

After lunch today, Mrs. Rubera started to leave the house on a shopping trip but paused on the porch where her father-in-law was seated. Infuriated at a remark she made, Rubera said, he went after the bat and began beating her.

At the time of the attack, Mrs. Rubera was wearing a white dress and a white hat. She was found lying face down on the porch.

Police are investigating the case. Rubera is being held in the county jail on a $10,000 bond.

Japanese Fire On British Over Food

RANGOON, Burma, Aug. 27.—(UP)—Japanese troops, angered by the Allied refusal to provide them with food, opened fire on British forces in the Shwegyin area, north of Rangoon, on the eve of enemy capitulation throughout the entire Southeast Asia war theater, it was disclosed today.

The Japanese opened fire at 9:30 a. m. Sunday with rifles, grenades, mortars and machineguns—inflicting few casualties—when they called across the Shwegyin chaur (gully) for rice and were told by British troops they had no rice for them. The enemy forces had been cut off for weeks in the area 52 miles west of the Thai border.

British 12th Army officers meanwhile established contact with the Japanese in the Sittang bend area and arrangements were being made to prevent further bloodshed by withdrawal of Japanese from the area. It was announced that official pictures of the arrival of Japanese envoys would be printed and dropped to other Japanese in northern Burma to persuade them to surrender.

The surrender agreement to-night was described as a "local agreement" on behalf of the British and Japanese theater commanders. It will go into effect when full surrender documents have been signed in Tokyo. It is a cease-fire order was sent to Japanese forces.

The Japanese envoys are scheduled to leave tomorrow, presumably with satisfactory agreements under which the Japanese will begin the occupation of southeast Asia as soon as the Tokyo surrender becomes official. One of the first tasks will be to remove Allied prisoners of war.

was prompted by the fact that the compromise proposed by directors of the Augusta Chamber of Commerce at a meeting with city officials yesterday merely urged the designation of "a new representative to confer with the hospital authority on all questions of policy and management."

While some saw in the suggestion a proposal that Dr. Kelly resign altogether, others said it would leave the way open for him to continue in some capacity, with a new man taking his place as the school's representative in all dealings with the hospital authority.

The chamber of commerce's proposal followed by a few minutes a similar one by House Speaker Roy Harris, introduced by Augusta Mayor Page as "representing Chancellor Sanford, who regrets that he cannot be with us today."

Speaker Harris, believing both sides were at fault, urged the resignation of Dr. Kelly and the present hospital authority.

Harris said the whole squabble grew out of the inefficiency of Dr. W. H. Goodrich, who recently resigned as hospital superintendent.

"Dr. Goodrich is a good man," said Harris, "but he was too old to run the hospital right. When the board said things were going to get better, he tried to get him to resign. Then when you business men insisted that he be left alone, the board started trying to help do things that a good superintendent would have attended to."

"We might as well face the issue now," said Harris. "I've been on my phone all week. Some powerful forces in Atlanta are trying to get the advantage of this situation to do what they've been endeavoring to do for years—move the medical school to Atlanta. I know who it is. They've bragged to me in the legislature that they had inside help in the medical school. I never knew before who it was."

DR. KELLY'S DENIAL

Dr. Kelly later denied Harris' inference that he was working with Atlantians interested in moving the medical school to the state capital.

"The first inside help they ever got from me was last Thursday when I called Dean Stewart and asked him if the third and fourth year classes could be moved to Grady," said Dr. Kelly.

Asked what reaction he had had to his Sunday proposal to move the medical school to Atlanta, Dr. Kelly said an editorial in this morning's Augusta Chronicle, urging that the Augusta hospital authority resign immediately before the school is lost, was typical.

"The student body is keyed up," he added. "They like the idea of moving the school to Atlanta."

HARRIS ACCUSES KELLY

Speaker Harris said Dr. Kelly had been most unfair in all his statements to the newspapers.

"He's given people the idea the state owns the hospital and that a bunch of local politicians are trying to mess with state property. The truth is that it's the city's hospital, and the city pays all the expenses for the state's work there."

"The board of regents ought to give us someone to deal with," said Harris. "It's obvious Kelly isn't in a mental attitude to work with anyone now. He's jumped on 75 per cent of our citizens. He's jumped on the party that hasn't lost an election in 40 years—and that doesn't intend to lose one in even longer than that."

ALTERNATIVE PROPOSED

Harris, as an alternative to the proposal that both Kelly and the hospital authority resign, suggested that Augusta sell or lease the hospital to the state, take the money and build another for municipal use.

William P. Congdon, a former member of the hospital authority, testified that Dr. Goodrich, former superintendent, was incapable of doing the job and that the hospital was as filthy as any pigpen I've ever seen.

"Goodrich worked from 12:30 until 2 p. m.," he said. "He couldn't have run that big an institution in an hour and a half a day if he were an operating genius—which he isn't."

Neither, said Congdon, was Dean Kelly a good superintendent when he had that job several years ago. "Kelly said, 'but when he was superintendent that hospital was as filthy as any pigpen I've ever seen.'"

Members of the committee at the audience were Louis Rabaut, Democrat, Michigan; John O'Brien, Democrat, Illinois; John H. Kerr, Democrat, North Carolina; Robert Jones, Republican, Ohio; Dean Gillespie, Republican, Colorado, and Butler Hare, Democrat, South Carolina.

At the same time Radio Tokyo introduced the word "surrender" to its audience in Great East Asia, giving a typical Japanese explanation of the term which for the past 3,000 years has been synonymous with death in enemy military terminology.

The surrender of Japanese armies in China was scheduled to take place Sept. 3 at the prewar capital of Nanking, which Chungking sources said their forces already had occupied along with the huge southern port of Canton.

The Russian occupation of Japanese-held territory in Manchuria, northern Korea and southern Sakhalin island apparently was complete today as Moscow reported the round-up of 30,000 additional Japanese prisoners.

Naval headquarters at Guam reported that Japanese garrisons on six bypassed Pacific islands, including the naval fortress of Truk, had agreed to surrender on word of the Tokyo capitulation.

Other islands are Rota, in the Marianas north of Guam; Jaluit, the tough nut island of the Marshalls often bombed but never invaded, and Yap and the Palau in the same category in the Carolines.

NEW IRON LUNG IS READY—IN CASE

The iron lung which was purchased last week by the Buckhead Lions' Club and placed at the disposal of critically ill Georgians is already standing by for use at Grady hospital.

While on display in front of the Grand theater, the aspirator was summoned to the hospital for possible occupancy by a 3-year-old polio victim. Hospital officials did not divulge the name or residence of the young Georgian.

Stricken with the dreaded disease one week ago, the child arrived at Grady after the four hospital-housed lungs were occupied by patients who had arrived earlier. The new mobile aspirator is now standing by in case it is needed by the child.

ever been in. Personally, I like Kelly. But I think he has let his ambition to rule or ruin the hospital get away from him."

KENNEDY'S STATEMENT

While mounting public sentiment to keep the hospital at all costs led one Cracker Party stalwart to favor the Harris proposed compromise, Safety Commissioner Kennedy, who frequently interpolated with "we want Kelly," was adamant.

"Before I'd surrender one iota of the operation of the hospital I'd be willing to give up the medical school," declared Kennedy, recognized leader of the party. "Before I'd discipline my friends on the hospital authority I'd let 'em move it to Atlanta."

Kennedy, who added that he thought Kelly is "too small for the job," said later he was satisfied the board would resign if Kelly did.

City Attorney Wesley Killebrew said Kelly had done a good job as dean of the medical school, but that he had had to be removed from the superintendency of the hospital and has tried to run it ever since anyway.

A meeting of the University of Georgia's Medical College students will be held tomorrow morning, according to a student who declined use of his name, "to give Dean Lombard Kelly a vote of confidence in support of his efforts to preserve the medical school's rating."

WASHINGTON, Aug.

Knutson Sees Income Tax Cut of 20 Pct.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(UP)—The House Ways and Means Committee definitely will consider a tax bill this fall, Chairman Robert L. Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, said tonight after Rep. Harold Knutson, Republican, Minnesota, predicted congress would cut individual taxes next year by 20 per cent.

Doughton had no comment on Knutson's statement except to say that "We can't eliminate the excess profits taxes"—as proposed by Knutson—"without cutting individual taxes." He added that his committee will consider tax changes.

Another advocate of across-the-board reductions is Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, of the Senate Finance Committee. He is expected to return here tomorrow, with prospects that there will be an early fact-finding meeting of the joint congressional committee on taxation.

Knutson, ranking Republican on the tax-drafting Ways and Means Committee, told reporters it was his "guess" that a 20 per cent individual cut would be made effective Jan. 1. He also hoped that the committee will "recognize that the payments to be made in 1946—that means the payment of 1945 corporation taxes and payments on 1946 income—for individuals under the pay-as-you-go program—can speed up or retard the return of a prosperous peace-time economy."

Knutson implied that he might favor retroactive tax relief for business on 1945 taxes payable next year.

"When we consider corporate taxes," he said, "we must keep in mind that payments in 1946 must be related to providing jobs in private industry and encouraging new industry to help take up any labor slack."

He anticipated a peace-time budget of about $26,000,000,000. This is approximately the figure expected by Doughton and George.

Dr. H. G. Huey Dies Suddenly At Homerville

HOMERVILLE, Ga., Aug. 27.—Funeral services for Dr. H. G. Huey, 54, physician and surgeon here, who died at his home Saturday night of a heart attack, tentatively set for tomorrow at the home here. Interment will be near Brockton, Ala., the section of which he was a native.

A native of Pike county, Alabama, Dr. Huey came to Homerville in 1918 to practice medicine. His interests became widespread, and in addition to his practice, he gradually acquired various business interests until he became one of the county's wealthiest, and most influential citizens. For years he operated a private bank here, the Empire Banking Company, until it was incorporated a few months ago when he became its vice president and largest stockholder. It is the only bank in this county.

In addition, he owned an extensive wholesale gas and oil business here. His hospital has been described as one of the best equipped of any in the state.

He served a number of terms on the staff of former Gov. Talmadge. He was a former member of the county board of education and the local board of education here.

Dr. Huey came from a distinguished line of ancestry. His grandfather was imprisoned with Andrew Jackson at Camden, S. C., and he has three great-grandfathers buried in the same graveyard as Andrew Jackson's father.

In 1941 he received widespread attention from his trip to Nassau in the Bahamas to visit the Duke of Windsor at the duke's invitation.

He was a past president and member of the state board of medical examiners. During 1931 he was chairman of the University of Georgia board of visitors. He served as a trustee of the University of Georgia medical school until this was placed under the board of regents.

Survivors include, besides his wife, the former Janie Owen, of New Brockton, Ala.; a son, George O. Huey, of Homerville; a daughter, Mrs. D. B. Terry, of Homerville; four brothers, Walton S. Huey, of Enterprise, Ala.; a son, Alex Huey, circuit solicitor general at Enterprise, Ala.; Robert M. Huey, New Orleans, attorney, and G. B. Huey, Enterprise, Ala., merchant, and a sister, Mrs. Edgar Mattox, of Enterprise, Ala.

Marion H. Roose, 34, Dies; Rites Tomorrow

Marion H. Roose, 34, of 1540 Athens avenue, S. W., a salesman, died yesterday in a private hospital following a prolonged illness.

Funeral services will be held at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow at Spring Hill, with Dr. R. Mitchell, Dr. L. A. Semmens and Dr. B. M. Preston officiating.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Betty Goodner Roose, and a son, Donald Roose, of Atlanta; his father, C. A. Roose, of High Grove, Cal., and two sisters, Mrs. Frances Denmore, of Loma Linda, Cal., and Mrs. C. C. Burns, of Tampa, Florida.

Mr. Roose, a member of the First Seventh-Day Adventist church, was a sales representative for the Orkin Exterminating Company.

Opportunity School

The Atlanta Opportunity School will be open for registration for the fall quarter Thursday and Friday, from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. for students desiring to enroll for the regular daytime courses which begin Tuesday, Sept. 4. Those desiring to enroll for a late afternoon course in shorthand and typing should register Aug. 31, from 4:15 until 6 p. m., and those interested in night courses may register Monday, Sept. 10, between 7 and 9 p. m.

Whose City Is Atlanta Anyhow?

Drivers of the city's garbage trucks went on strike because wages of Negro helpers were raised five cents an hour in order to allow the city to meet the prevailing wage for such labor and hold the men who otherwise would be attracted to private employment.

In January the drivers had accepted a seven-and-a-half-per-cent raise and, without dissent, had heard the head of the local federation representing all unions say there would be no more demands until late fall.

There is irremovable evidence these men were, with or without their knowledge, manipulated in municipal politics. We do not think this was done with the knowledge or consent of either candidate. Neither would be a party to such an act.

However, one of the truck drivers' local's letters now made public speaks of conferences with the opposition candidate and asks that a fee of $1 be taken from each member for campaign purposes.

There isn't much doubt but that the leadership of the local now out on strike stands convicted by conclusive circumstantial evidence of having imperiled the city's health and of using their local as a political club.

The Old Curmudgeon Stays On

Ripsnorting, cantankerous, self-confessed "curmudgeon," Harold Ickes will stay on as secretary of the interior, Harry S. Truman, president of these United States, has said so.

There would have been regret, but no criticism, of Mr. Truman had he accepted the proffered resignation of Harold Ickes. Every president has the right to his own cabinet.

But we have the feeling that Harry Truman feels very comfortable with the

Yesterday this union put pickets about the city's garages.

This means they seek to stop:

Ambulances which go to accidents and serve Grady hospital.

All work of the health department, particularly that connected with control of rodents, mad dogs and so on.

Their attitude is, "To hell with the people of Atlanta. To hell with the sick. To hell with the fact that children may die of epidemics caused by a breakdown in sanitary services. To hell with everybody but us."

The Constitution does not at all wish to be placed in an anti-labor position and will not be so placed. Indeed, there are no labor issues to discuss. The facts are that responsible labor is embarrassed and hurt by the action of this irresponsible element which, caught in a trap of its own making, is willing to destroy all it can rather than admit error.

The city administration merits the support of all citizens, in or out of unions.

This is not at all an issue of organized labor.

It is one of semi-anarchy by men seeking personal power.

Perhaps a Little Hasty

While it is perfectly understandable that President Truman should have been irked by some of the constant criticism of affairs American by the French press, he perhaps acted a bit hastily in applying a blanket criticism of unfairness to America.

Some French papers undoubtedly are unfriendly. A few publish untrue news out of an inability to get facts.

For instance, one of the rumors current in France in January of this year was that the Americans were eating French food, as had the Germans, while France went hungry. Later rumors had it German prisoners were getting luxuries. These were set aright by OWI.

Now current in France is a false rumor the Americans are burning and otherwise destroying large stocks of food as they leave bases for America. These rumors found their way into print.

Gen. DeGaulle could help, but he apparently privately encourages such publication. But, be that as it may, we think the French press should be allowed to print what it thinks, even though we deplore its lack of thorough checking up.

The French, and most any peoples in Europe, might ask why, for instance, such papers as Mr. McCormick's paper in Chicago and Mrs. Patterson's in Washington publish anti-European excesses surpassing any in the French press.

We had best let the French press, which is making a great effort to be independent, as the old corrupt French press was not, find its own way.

The Soviets Have Done It Again

Generalissimo Stalin's Soviet government has concluded a major agreement and—As usual, mouths are agape.

The Soviet Union has signed a peace treaty with China marked "good for 30 years."

It recognizes the central government of Chiang Kai-shek as the government of China.

Instead of taking over Port Arthur and Dairen, the naval base and the other the commercial port, lost to the Japanese in the Russo-Japanese war 40 years ago, a joint operation was arranged.

The Soviets asked for no part in the direction of Manchuria, but instead recognize Chinese sovereignty and will withdraw all troops within three months after the official surrender of the Japanese. The Manchurian railways will be operated jointly for a period of years. The Soviets will not interfere in any internal problem, even that of the much-disputed Sinkiang province, generally known as Turkestan.

Lastly, but perhaps most important, the Soviets obtained Chinese recognition of the independent status of Outer Mongolia, a region under Soviet influence for 25 years. There will be a plebiscite. The nomadic inhabitants, organized for the first time through the pressure of the war, will vote to become one of the independent Soviet republics.

Outer Mongolia, I think, was what the Soviets chiefly wanted out of the entire deal.

Outer Mongolia In surrendering all claims to Outer Mongolia the Chinese gave up a claim to almost 1,000,000 square miles of territory, much of it Gobi desert. Few know anything about it. Its population before war came was probably about 1,000,000 persons, one person for every square mile.

Russian influence began to penetrate there as early as 1915. In 1921 a White Russian, Ungern Sternberg, set up a base of resistance to the Soviets. The Mongols rose against him and the Soviets went in to finish him off. Since that time the Soviets have gained in prestige.

For some reason, not entirely clear, the Soviets always have attached enormous importance to Outer Mongolia.

Now they must have it, or will have it.

Communists What will amaze most persons is that the Soviets have "abandoned" the Communists of North China, who hold a region as great as that held by Chiang Kai-shek before the Japanese defeat.

Not Communists in the meaning of the word—their basis being ownership of land, not communal sharing; their members being almost entirely small farmers and few industrial workers; their strength lying in agricultural regions, not cities; they nevertheless looked to Russia for inspiration.

One of these days someone with the background and knowledge will do an article on the change in foreign policy of the Soviet Union. The coming of Stalin meant not merely changes in the economic direction, but in foreign policy.

Under Lenin and the world revolution policy they had their fingers burned in China. They burned them, also, in many of the smaller nations in the years after the first World War. Their hopes for a Communist revolution in Germany were thwarted. When they tried to assist Spain in the civil war, with Italy and Germany aiding the revolutionists, they moved in very gingerly and with little help. The Soviets, as a government, pulled out. A few individuals carried on. After Stalin all this ceased.

While in Moscow a few months ago, engaged in debate with Soviet editors, they hooted at the point the Soviets directly aided Communist parties in other countries.

"They must row their own boats," was the reply. "If they are not strong enough to go it alone, then they do not go it."

It seems to me this likely to be true. They may wish them well, but more and more it looks as if Stalin is concerned with the Soviet Union. The ideology is in the wind. Any who wish may listen.

The enormous strength of the ideology is that it is flexible, as China illustrates. Communism takes many forms, as we see in China, Romania, France, where there is almost fanatical love for one's own piece of land; Greece, Bulgaria, and so on.

But one thing it has everywhere in common—it is the politics of protest. That is something I wish we could learn. Even the central government admitted they had no evidence of Soviet aid in war materials, food or goods to the Chinese Communists.

So, the Chiang Kai-shek government will be left with that problem. The really able military leader of the Chinese Communists, Mao Tse-tung, is to confer with the generalissimo. That is interesting. The price on his head, dead or alive, delivered to the central government has been $200,000 for a long, long time. A bargain could have got $500,000.

They may work out a compromise. Or they may go on into civil war.

The Soviets have not given any orders.

They have said they would be hands off.

What is going on in Mao Tse-tung's head is very important to all of us.

RALPH T. JONES

What Do You Mean By 'Free Enterprise'?

Human liberty is the priceless heritage which mankind has, in the past decade, rewon. Yet the word "liberty" is a necessary limit to liberty. They come at that point where liberty ceases and turns to license.

Free enterprise is basic to the American economic system. It is as important, economically, as individual liberty socially and ideologically. Yet free enterprise must be restrained when it begins to evolve into freebootery.

Liberty degenerates into license when individual actions interfere with the rights of others, when it endangers public safety or brings suffering or disgrace upon someone else. It is then that the law steps in. The erring one is told he cannot murder, steal, or otherwise disregard the basic rights of others.

Free enterprise owns the realm of freebootery when it exploits the public for its own ends, when it exploits the public for a service performed for that public. That is why we have laws against usury, against misrepresentation, against "con" men, against racketeering of all kinds.

It is no infringement of liberty to prevent the operation of the "numbers" racket. Yet, specious arguments might contend that it does limit the free enterprise of the racketeers, for it is a form of enterprise to operate the "bug."

Service the Keyword The key word which determines the enterprise is "service." The man, or corporation, which would freely engage in some enterprise must, in these modern times, always remember that the true value of that enterprise is measured not in dollar profit but in the value of the public service performed. If the quality and the fair price for the goods or service delivered is honest, it is the man, or corporation, which is the enterprise. That such an enterprise will be rewarded with an honest and proper rate of profit. Both in dollars and in satisfaction over a contribution to the best in life and living.

The world has been torn for a decade by a struggle to preserve justice, honor and liberty. Yet there is an interesting evidence of a revolution still in progress. That revolution will continue in the days of peace. It is the revolution against individual and class greed, and for human brotherhood and human helpfulness.

This change in man's thinking is the real cause behind the triumph of the British Labor party in the recent elections. Contrary to the belief widely held in America, that the Labor party in Britain corresponds to organized labor in the U. S., the victory for Attlee and his followers came about chiefly because of the votes of the great middle class, the "white collar" people who, for once, were not inarticulate, who made their desires known through their votes.

Those desires focus, chiefly, in a determination that the old Tory system in Britain, under which a comparatively small class enjoyed excessive luxuries of life while millions existed in painful poverty, must go. Whether they succeed or not, the objective of the British Labor party is better living, greater security, finer education for the great mass of the people. They are chiefly interested in the men and women and children of the future. Not in the hereditary privileges of a small class of aristocrats.

Our Great Hope The United States operates upon a different lesson to be observed in the evolution of Britain now going on.

We believe, I think rightly, in free enterprise. We shall surmount the problems of reconversion because of the unlimited strength of the competitive spirit which finds its fullest expression in free enterprise. I think the pessimists are going to be surprised at the speed and at the ease with which American enterprise and American initiative move into peacetime economy, now the war is over.

Those who know tell us, dramatically, there is no pessimism about America and America's future save by a little group inside America. The outside world, unanimously, foresees for us the most prosperous era of our history, now near.

And it is free enterprise which will attain this prosperity. There must be, always, proper restraints to halt those who use the phrase, "free enterprise," only as excuse for plans of tricky and selfish exploitation.

We don't want excessive government restraints upon business and industry. But only the government can effectively protect us against the potential freebooters of business, the would-be racketeers of industry.

Competition Still Reigns

A brilliant southern writer with a famous name, John Temple Graves II, has been crusading for something he calls "unimpeded competition" and "unimpeded free enterprise." And numbers of people seem inclined to argue the matter with him.

This is not strange, for millions of people think in terms of slogans and catch phrases, and they look upon a new one with doubts and misgivings. They suspect it of introducing a new and probably dangerous idea. (But when familiarity has made it acceptable, they adopt it as their own and thereafter use it to mean anything they wish it to mean.)

In this instance there is nothing to fear; for while the words are new, the idea is older than our nation.

It is the same thing for which Sam Adams and Patrick Henry and Thomas Jefferson crusaded. It is the thing we have had, at least in theory, ever since Jefferson abolished the somewhat Fascist setup of the Federalists.

It is the thing we have fought for, and are still fighting for, and must fight for without ceasing and without loss of vigilance forever and ever if we hope to remain free. It is, in short, one of those inalienable rights with which man is endowed and must fight tooth and nail to retain.

It means man's right to engage in industry or commerce and run the business to suit himself so long as he doesn't violate the rules which he and other free men have established to make themselves behave. It means absolute freedom for all to do as they please, with a cop on every corner to see that the strong and crooked don't please to pick the pockets of the weak and simple. It means complete freedom to buy and sell, modified by the knowledge that a state inspector will test the scales. It means all the freedom man is fit to be trusted with, and no restricting laws except the kind decent men would observe if there were no laws.

Young New Dealers, joyously experimenting with a nation, developed the idea that unimpeded was more important than the same—that the business of unimpeded was not merely to enforce the rules, but to experiment with new rules and penalize the ones should win. The future of freedom began to look pretty dismal.

Now America is the only place on earth where unimpeded free enterprise or unimpeded free competition hasn't been abolished or heavily shackled.

Soon we shall be tempted to shackle it in order to keep pace with the cartels of lands dominated by Statism, and we must be on guard against the fears of those who have little faith.

If democracy, with all of our advantages, can't survive competition, it will have to go—and freedom will go with it.

SENATOR SOAPER

Phonograph records of earlier Quilting speeches, played at the treason trial, might be just the thing for those who want something lower than boogie-woogie.

Dehydrated whale appears in the British market, but with no directions for cooking. It is supposed, however, that one first heats the water in a reservoir.

Much in the headlines of late have been two favorite characters of the physicists: The irresistible force, in the shape of the exploding atom, and that immovable body, Mr. Ickes.

Who now remembers when a dollar's worth of groceries, firmly wedged around the baby in a baby carriage, would keep it from moving around?

Brings House Down, Really

We did our first show in battle helmets when we were in Fritzlar, Germany. It was for the 363d Photo Reconnaissance Group and part of the Fifth Armored Division. They were afraid of weather, so instead of being outdoors they'd set up a stage in a big German warplane hanger that had been slapped around by several bombs.

Most of the roof was defunct, what was left of the walls was swaying gently back and forth in the breeze, and right over our heads a very loose beam was juggling about two tons of loose bricks. If there ever was a time in my life that I was afraid to get a big, loud laugh—that was it.

GIs were hanging from the roof and from all the rafters and pipes along the wall. Twice a pipe came loose and sections of walls and soldiers piled up at the bottom, but fortunately nobody was hurt. It was the first time I'd had to duck flying bricks before telling a joke.

From Eschwege, we'd moved on to Fritzlar to check in with the Ninth Air Tactical Command. While signing some short-letters for guys there, one soldier handed me a $5 bill about as big as a Stork Club menu, with a picture of an Indian chief on it. It had been issued in 1803 and the owner (who asked me not to mention his name because the Geneva conference might not understand) told me he took ten of these antique fivers from a German SS trooper. That shows you how long they'd been planning an invasion of the U. S.

Bea Lillie, Reggie Gardner and the Information Please USO unit played there a week or so before us and we got reports on their show. June Bruner was slowly becoming a nervous wreck from fighting liberated pianos they'd haul out for her to play in some of those places. One they had at Fritzlar looked like it was built by Steinway's barber out of old apple boxes. It was so rickety they had a carpenter standing by with a hammer so that every time June hit a chord he could nail the keys back on.

Protection in Atomic Bomb

WASHINGTON.—Fear of our dropping another atomic bomb will be a major if invisible policeman, facilitating the orderly occupation of Japan. Tokyo broadcasts about the accruing deaths from the after-effects of radioactivity in the Hiroshima and Nagasaki districts aim not only at winning world sympathy, they warn the Japanese people of what they may expect if they resist or hamper the occupation.

Supporting the truth of the broadcasts, word must travel from lip to lip in the densely populated little home islands of how infinitely more terrible this new American bomb is than the demolition and incendiary bombs which wrecked war plants and turned cities into seas of flames.

The Japs are used to earthquakes and typhoons. The worst that could happen would be a typhoon following an earthquake. After both, they could pay their respects to their dead, care for their injured and repair the damage done.

Ruled by Force As a people, they are habituated to the rule of force. It ruled in the old days when the members of the master caste of Samurai never walked the streets without wearing swords with which they might cut down a common man for a minor offense. By force they spread an empire to the borders of India and the northern waters of Australia.

Now they in the homeland have become subject to a man-made supernatural force which Gen. MacArthur can turn on to spread the greater equivalent of earthquakes and typhoons which would make of Japan a seared and lifeless land.

MacArthur has not so much as whispered any threat to employ an atomic bomb to suppress any resistance to our occupation. He is too humane to employ it. But it is in Japanese logic that he might.

But as one who knows the Japanese, his landing of a battle-trained and equipped army and the gathering of the mightiest fleet of all time in Tokyo bay is not just a parade of power across 5,000 miles of ocean from our shore. It is convincing proof of the overwhelming force at MacArthur's call—force in terms of the kind of weapons with which the Japs dreamed they could nail down their conquests.

They are the most regimented, the most robot of peoples. Their Emperor has spoken the word. They know we have the means to compel their obedience. Their way of "saving face" now will be in the role of the attentive hosts, watchful for openings by which they may profit through their art of ingratiation. They will find they cannot trick their new ruler and he will not trick them. To know MacArthur and to know Japan is to be convinced that the occupation under him will proceed with scheduled precision.

Staking Claims With the occupation of the main islands of plan under Gen. MacArthur, there are divided commands and a rush to stake out claims by the victors elsewhere in which bases for atomic bombing are in the reckoning.

Sentiment calls for the Chinese occupation of Hongkong, which has long been British. Roosevelt and Churchill agreed on British reoccupation, and MacArthur and Mountbatten agreed the details at their recent meetings. It is understood that Stalin gave his consent.

Realism and world interest call for British reoccupation when Chiang Kai-shek is short of disciplined troops to meet all the demands upon him in the present Chinese crisis.

Northward is the conflict with the Communist army. Russia will occupy the great province of Manchuria, at least until such time as a unified Chinese government can take over. Russia stakes out a further claim by moving into the Japanese Kurile chain opposite the Aleutians. Capture or repossession appears in the present confusion to be the one who gets there first.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

Justified Complaint

Editor Constitution: Men of the 95th Division who have protested the War Department plan to send them to the Pacific for a second tour of overseas duty have, in view of the war's end, a justified complaint. Soldiers everywhere, I am sure, agree and sympathize with them.

On only one point can it be said that the veterans of the 95th have gone overboard; that is their claim that occupational duty should fall to men who have never been overseas. On this point, the men of the 95th are alienating many soldiers who tend otherwise to support them.

According to War Department figures, there are close to three million enlisted men in the States who have never been overseas. What these figures do not show is that a large percentage of these States-bound soldiers have upwards of three years of service. Many of these men were held back in the States during hostilities on the alleged ground that they were "essential and key personnel," despite the fact that on repeated occasions they made honest and prolonged efforts to be shipped to combat zones. In addition, these men rendered earnest, hard, meritorious service training replacements and supplying their comrades overseas. To make their assignments even more difficult from a moral standpoint, the overseas men arrogantly and unimpairedly counseled the former as "USO commandos," "goldbricks," etc. That some men did not wish to go overseas and on occasion pulled strings to avoid it, is undeniable. On the whole, however, the men who stayed behind did so because they were KEPT BEhind; selfish commanders thought more of the job to be done in the States than of the supreme job to be accomplished overseas.

Civil War

Editor Constitution: We wonder how Mr. G. L. Griffin, of Maysville, Ga., could think of such a thing as schooling to use as an excuse to get the 18-year-olds out of the army. That's a pretty dumb excuse, Mr. Griffin; what do you have in the Army? An eighteen-year-old—and you're wanting him back in a sure-fire way to start a civil war right here in the States!

What kind of a kid is it that can't finish high school by the time HE'S 18 years old? And how many of those that go to college start before they're 20? Just a few, Mr. Griffin. Also, what about the 18-year-olds who were drafted 2 or 3 years ago? What's the difference in their education? How are they going to finish the education they left off? The same way as the new kids. By the GI Bill of Rights! Now—can't your kid (if you have one, if you don't you probably wouldn't show so much ambition for the other guys to get out of the army) take his lot along with the rest of the guys?

Why don't you let the guys out of the Army first that fought this war? Plenty of them are 19, 20, 21, and 22; eighteen when selected.

CPL. BILL POWELL, Thomasville, Ga.

Hold Cotton

Editor Constitution: With all my heart do I plead with our Georgia cotton farmers as well as all the cotton producers of the south not to sell a single bale of your 1944 cotton as the government will carry this cotton until July 31, 1946. Then place all your 1945 cotton in government loan and you can then hold this crop until July 31, 1946.

If you sell now at price offered by mills, exporters and cotton brokers you are willfully committing suicide. You are cutting your own throat. Please, please, please hold your 1944 and 1945 cotton for another year, to July 31, 1946, and in that case you will be able to sell at not less than 30 cents.

The cotton brokers, exporters and cotton mills are tearing their shirts now for good grade cotton. It is not available unless we cotton farmers sell to them our 1944 and 1945 cotton. Boll weevil is taking a toll of 50 per cent of Georgia's crop; also Mississippi, Texas and Arkansas are hollering boll weevil. This will be the shortest cotton crop in 50 years.

Henry Ford and all auto manufacturers make the price of their product. Shoe manufacturers, clothing manufacturers, farm implement manufacturers place a price on their product, but the cotton farmer is "hog-tied" and all he can say is "how much will you 'gimme'" and that settles the price. No this is not fair. Cotton farmers, please, please, please sit steady in the boat and hold all cotton until July 31, 1946, and victory will be yours.

EVELYN HANNA

Clothes in Britain
Woefully Short

"Whenas in silks my Julia goes
Then then (methinks) how sweetly flows
That liquefaction of her clothes."

The words of flow along and rustle softly through your mind, and even though there have been no silks in England for many a year, the title for an article on women's clothes demands that it be taken from that little verse of Herrick's. With what justification? Well, I got out a dictionary just now and looked up the word "liquefaction." "The act or process of making liquid; the state of being melted," says the volume on my desk.

Now in Hollywood that would be interpreted in such a manner that Ann Sheridan would emerge in an evening dress that was "a sheath of gold lame" and she would look literally as if she were melted and poured into it. The customers would not complain.

In Britain, another interpretation is necessary. When I speak of the liquefaction of British women's clothes, I mean solely that all their lines appear to have run together and that the merging was done not wisely but too well. Face to face now with the inflexibility of clothing coupons, I should like to say that the British woman has done amazingly well in her allowance, and my gawd, how she has suffered!

Before the war she was known on several continents for the good cut and material of her weeds; of her garden frocks, some charity was necessary in their description. The dowager wore Queen Mary hats that were polished off once and for all time with the phrase "That looks like last year's bird nests," and the young girls with their piano legs looked up the crowd in breeches. Neither young nor old had figures that would have evoked wolfish howls from the Hollywood scouts; the Lady Honoria appeared to have been bred more for jumping hurdles than for modeling afternoon frocks, size 10, in black net with sequins.

After six years of war you can imagine the state of their figures, their morale, and their wardrobes. A glance at the front page of The London Times any morning will give you the entire story: Under the heading "SHOPPERS' MARKET PLACE" you will find the following: "Black Chinese silk shawl, 52 inches square, deep fringe, $25, new. No coupons." "Grey suede-lined jacket, size 40, $30, may be seen in London; also wool, laundered, perfect condition—no coupons. Offer." "Lady would exchange silver fox fur for portable beauty case, Arden or Ovalux." "Lovely blue and white brocade evening dress, size 38, worn twice, $75; two ostrich feather fans, flame and white. Offer, approval." "Offered: one bottle dark red Revlon nail varnish, 21 shillings."

And the story is, in words of one syllable, that unless you buy luxuries of this sort from individuals, you haven't enough coupons to keep waist and skirt together. Every towel, every dish cloth, every dust rag requires coupons. Since my arrival I've been dusting off my shoes with linen handkerchiefs. I brought with me, and washing dishes with some of Dundee Mills' (Griffin) best face cloths. Fortunately I also brought with me enough clothes to last several winters out; if I hadn't, I'd be out of luck, for all the nice things advertised in the Times, are, with the exception of black silk shawls, sizes 38 to 44. Worth, Paquin, Mary Marsh, all the famous shops, are still functioning; good tweeds are still being made—but at what price! Evening dresses can be had, if you are so foolish as to spend your coupons that way, in awful pink and gold lame cloth.

An aged squirrel coat which I had worn and dragged around for seven years, and I almost left in the States, I mean solely that I took it to Harrods for storage—at $300, or $1,200; or rather, it was insured at that. Translated that means that the coat is not worth $300, but if it were lost a new one to replace it would cost Harrods that amount.

You feel better here in shabby things than in new ones; at least, your conscience doesn't hurt you when you meet other women. Get out a mountain climbing outfit (which I haven't) and the clerks and saleswomen will give you admiring glances. "That's the stuff," you can hear them say. And you must mind your finger, too. None of this tiny waistline business; until you get a middle-aged spread from neck to ankles you can be spotted as a foreigner; they know you haven't been living off potatoes!

What has happened to faces and hands? Well, you observed the price of that bottle of "nail varnish," roughly, $5. When you go to a beauty parlor for a manicure you can only get polish on your nails if you take your own bottle with you. In the majority of shops you are also required to bring your own towel when your hair is shampooed.

Those shampoos are definitely a soul-shaking experience. In the first place, you don't lean back luxuriously in a reclining chair. Oh, no! You do this the Spartan way. You sit forward, clutch the precious towel tightly over your eyes to keep them from being filled with soap solution, and hold your head over a basin. Face downward in the bowl, eyes and nose submerged, your hair is washed with British thoroughness and woe unto her who prematurely cries, "Hold, enough!" You stay there until the job is done, volens nolens.

Jerked out just before you reach the dressing point, you are vigorously assaulted with your towel and then your curls are fastened firmly in place—with, I need scarcely add—more determination than art.

Arriving home, your husband asks a bit uncertainly, "Have you been to the hairdresser's, dear?" And when you confess with downcast eyes that you have, he says, with more uncertainty, "I don't think they improved a great deal upon your appearance, dear," you can take that statement or leave it. But on the whole, husbands over here like their wives bareheaded. Why? Well, far be it from me to suggest such a thing, but could it be because hats are the only things in the British Isles that can be bought without coupons and the prices on them are literally staggering? Huh?

'Democracy'
Needs Study

NEW YORK.—When Ernest Bevin, the new foreign secretary of the British government, spoke of "that very much overworked word, 'democracy,'" and said it appeared to "need definition," he gave a faint yank at the string which might unravel the entire costume of hypocrisy and fraud from the fakers of the world.

It is the name of an evil political system whereby the majority rules without regard for the rights of minorities.

It has no standing in the American system of government which, from the beginning, has been republican. You will not find it in either the Declaration of Independence or the constitution, which latter document, on the contrary, was devised explicitly and by deliberate choice, to guarantee to the states of this nation a republican form of government.

France, too, was a republic which degenerated into democracy, then slavery under dictatorship.

Some Americans who thoughtlessly or stupidly accepted democracy as a definition of our form of government, insist, when confronted by the reality of democracy, that they do not mean pure democracy but representative democracy. But there is a legitimate word for the representative form of government. That is "republic," which provides for constitutional government by elected representatives of the people.

It is an interesting paradox that the most vehement advocates of democracy or majority rule are also most clamorous about the rights of minorities which, under true democracy, have no rights.

Slavery can exist under democracy for under true democratic procedure it is necessary only for a majority to vote to enslave the rest. The majority may vote themselves the earned possessions of the minority. In the practice of unionism here, a man who flouts the will of the majority, however repugnant, may be barred forever from employment.

This hurts him and his family just as much as though he had been barred because of his religion or race but the will of the majority must be done under democracy. They are not solicitors for the rights of minorities as such. They have pet minorities.

There is another queer paradox in the fact that many of the unions which cry that they are actually republics are actually republics but still inflict abuses on the weak and helpless. They conduct regular elections which are, theoretically, fair and honest, in which the outstanding men are repeatedly returned to office.

They presently become so powerful, however, thanks to their superior intelligence and their opportunity to devote themselves to nothing else but union politics, that they manage to hold their jobs for long terms, sometimes for life. They pass laws, with or without authority from their constituents, which give them personal power over the union treasury and in some cases, prerogatives which are truly royal and not legally given to the President of the United States in relation to the American people.

The defect here is that they do not forbid a union president to serve more than one of two consecutive terms or compel members of the governing councils to step down after a given time. These states which forbade that a governor should serve more than one or two consecutive terms took this precaution to prevent ambitious rascals from developing greater power than the people.

The founding fathers neglected to provide against this.

This autocratic government of republican unions does not necessarily reveal a flaw in the system. What it does represent is abuse of the system which could be prevented by constitutional provisions.

Those who have cried "democracy and more democracy" these last 13 years have a strange and special version of the "majority." To them a "majority" of any given group means a majority of those present at a particular meeting.

In one spectacular case, an industry employing 300 men and women received demands from a union representing 10 per cent of the pay roll. This minority called a meeting, which was attended by 17 of its members, a majority of the 30. Ten of the 17 voted against the strike, knowing it would wreck the business and end their jobs permanently.

The Communists dragged the debate along until five of those 10 went home to sleep. The strike vote then carried, 7 to 5, and all 30 members had to strike by the vote of this "majority." The other 270 also were laid off and this condition became permanent when the owners, who had been making no profit, anyway, shut up shop.

It is easy to agree with Bevin that "democracy" has been overworked, and needs definition. But "republic," too, has been neglected and needs explanation and propaganda so that Americans may be rescued from their delusion that democracy is the form of government which provided freedom and the standards that exist in no other nation in this world but the republic of the United States.

Keep Draft, Limit Service to 2 Years, President Suggests to Congress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—President Truman, declaring fitness to combat veterans and uncertainties of the future demand continuation of selective service, suggested today a two-year limit on service by new Army draft inductees.

He also:

1. Recommended that congress lift a 280,000 ceiling on Army volunteers and consider inducements to stimulate voluntary enlistments. In that connection, he noted there are "legal uncertainties" as to benefits under the GI bill of rights for men who volunteer for the regular Army rather than accepting discharge.
2. Cautioned against "too early" termination of the emergency of the war. Such termination would mean selective service would have to be abandoned within six months. It also would strip the President of many wartime powers.

The chief executive set forth his views in a letter to Chairman Thomas, Democrat, Utah, and May, Democrat, Kentucky, of the Senate and House Military Committees. Considerable sentiment has been evidenced in both groups for an early end to the draft or at least a halt in teen-age inductions.

Mr. Truman opposed both proposals but comments of legislators indicated many are still unconvinced there is continued necessity for drafting 18 to 25-year-olds.

Saying estimates of Gen. Eisenhower and MacArthur of their needs total 1,200,000 troops, exclusive of supporting units in the United States and elsewhere, the President declared:

"It appears clear to me that we dare not depend solely on volunteers. The continuation of inducements through selective service at a rate depending upon the rate of volunteering is the only safe and acceptable solution. However, it is my view that these inducements should be for a two-year period unless sooner discharged and should consist of men in the age group 18 to 25 inclusive."

May announced the House Military Committee would begin public hearings tomorrow on Mr. Truman's proposals. The first witnesses will be two Army generals who will discuss continuation of the draft and volunteer enlistments.

"The President has made a sensible statement," May commented. "His letter is an admonition for congress to be sure you are right and then proceed."

May, who has voiced concern over continued draft of youths down to 18, added, however, that "I can see no sense in taking youngsters." He expressed belief

THE SANITARY WAY of washing dishes is one of many modern subjects now being studied at a school lunchroom managers' school, sponsored by the Fulton county school system this week. Demonstrating how dishes should be washed are, left to right, Mrs. T. L. Harrison, Mrs. M. L. Black, lunchroom managers, and Miss Eleanor Pryor, district supervisor of lunchrooms for the State Department of Education, who assists in the workshop.

MANAGERS STUDY

Lunchrooms At Schools To Be Clean

By CHRISTINE JONES.

When the doors of the Fulton county schools open in two weeks, the children will find sanitary, neat-as-a-pin lunchrooms waiting for them and health-conscious lunchroom managers supervising the serving of lunches as good and as wholesome as mother serves.

The reason for the up-to-date lunchrooms and their trained supervisors is going on now at the West Fulton High school. This week, more than 40 lunchroom managers and assistants in 43 county schools are attending school.

Blackboards in the basement classroom at the school are covered with drawings of germs and words right out of a scientific kitchen. The "students" attending the classes, which began yesterday and will continue through Friday, are learning about health and sanitation.

Across the hall from the classroom, the women managers will put to practice what they learn in the class. They will prepare school lunches and eat them during their lunch period. They will wash dishes in the sanitary way—using all sorts of modern equipment.

"This is the first time that we've ever had a workshop for the lunchroom managers," said Mrs. W. J. Webb, director of home economics and health education of the county school system. "Of course, the state has conducted workshops in Athens and Tifton, but only one or two of our managers have been able to attend. Last spring we proposed a workshop for Fulton

Five Fires Break Out On Europa; Sailor Held

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Five fires broke out almost simultaneously today on the S. S. Europa, now being reconditioned into a U. S. troop transport, but were extinguished swiftly with little damage.

A U. S. sailor attached to the liner, was taken into custody. The Navy said a firebug evidently was at work and took a serious view of the incident, because the Europa is made largely of wood. Holes had been dug in wooden parts of the ship and stuffed with paper and oily waste.

Two representatives of the food industry will tell the managers just what foods they can expect to obtain from war-scarce food shelves and iceboxes. The representatives also will give the women hints on substitutes for scarce foods.

The handling of milk and its value to growing school children will be another lesson, with a representative from the public welfare department lecturing and answering questions.

KITCHEN EQUIPMENT

Managers will be told how to care for kitchen equipment by a demonstrator from the Georgia Power Company, Mrs. Webb added.

"We want to include all phases of kitchen management and work in our workshop," she continued. "That's why we have asked experts in each field to act as teachers."

Mrs. Webb, who is assisted in the supervision of the workshop by Miss Eleanor Pryor, district supervisor of lunchrooms for the state department of education, said that the managers represent all the grammar schools and three of the high schools in the county system.

"We have found in the past few years that the school lunchroom is an important part of our schools," Mrs. Webb said. "The lunchroom is a practice place for the application of instruction learned elsewhere in the school program. It has been used as a medium to establish habits of neatness and cleanliness to form good eating habits, and to guide social behavior."

Mrs. Webb said that more than 2,000,000 lunches were served to students in the county schools last year. Under the program of federal aid to lunchrooms, the government provided 60 per cent of the food cost, she said.

With the interest and co-operation which we have received from children, teachers and the parent-teacher group in Fulton county, we feel that the lunchroom workshop will be a successful addition to our school program."

SHORTY HARWELL BACK

Atlanta Girl Built Morale In Italy

By RALPH MCGILL.

Wearing a Cairo puzzle ring, a loose-linked silver bracelet of intricate design done by northern Italian silversmiths, a freshly laundered Red Cross uniform and her usual wide-mouthed grin, throaty-voiced Mrs. Esther G. Harwell, one of my favorite Atlantans, is back in town on leave.

That she and a young lady from Mississippi were selected as the two outstanding Red Cross girls in the Mediterranean theater was not at all surprising. They call her "Shorty." The name fits. She is a grand person and only sheer modesty prevents her from revealing all sorts of citations from high-up officials about the great quality of her work with the GI soldiers.

If you can stop her talking for as long as one half a minute and get in a question, you can find out that she left Atlanta in the fall of 1943, served in Casablanca, Algiers, Sardinia and on up with the Fifth Army into northern Italy and into Verona. . . . always just a few miles behind the fighting.

When they sent along Joe Louis and his boxing troupe to Sardinia she took one look at her little recreation spot with 2,000 seats and got busy. An imaginative girl, she borrowed 10,000 bomb cases from the Air Corps, built a few seats and ended up with 15,000 GIs sitting down to see Joe Louis box an exhibition and referee other bouts.

In a little more than two years she figures maybe she danced something like 10,000 miles with GIs at the Red Cross clubs; and made and gave away millions of doughnuts. She learned what every Georgian learned who traveled around in the vicinity of the war learned—that Georgians will travel miles to talk to one.

Her gift for gab came in fine with the ear-hungry Georgia GIs who wanted to hear Georgia talk like mad and Shorty was the gal to supply that need. She has more energy than a cage full of monkeys and an indefatigable faith in herself and people.

A club director with a magnificent record, she will go on to China or Tokyo or to one of the big hospitals where they are reported to be in need of personality and a gift for organization and "getting along." Her war record is one of the best Atlanta has made. A good thorough, Shorty. Long may you wave.

First Person Dies Under New Statute

A 27-year-old Negro is believed to be the first person to die in Georgia for robbery by force and violence, which charge is punishable by death under a recent state law.

He was Henry Hayes, of Terry street, who was electrocuted last Friday at the Georgia State Prison, at Reidsville. He was convicted of beating a prominent Hapeville woman, robbing her and attempting to assault her last October outside the city limits on Manford road.

The woman, whose brakes went bad on Crew and Richardson streets, gave the man $1 to drive her car out of heavy downtown traffic when he was unable to correct the trouble. He drove out Pryor street to Manford road.

After beating and attempting to attack her, the man ran when a passerby approached.

Board To Study

Jeff Davis Road Project

Paving of the only unpaved section of the Jefferson Davis Memorial highway connecting the two Confederate capitals, Richmond and Montgomery, will be considered today at a meeting of the state highway board.

Gov. Arnall is understood to be in favor of the project. The unpaved section is 12 miles in length, in Ben Hill and Irwin counties. Residents of Fitzgerald and Irwinville desire, it was said, to plant the section when paved, with crepe myrtles and dogwood trees in honor of the dead of World War II from that section.

Work on the Jefferson Davis highway was begun in 1921 after a campaign by the United Daughters of the Confederacy and community leaders. The road roughly follows the route of the flight of the President of the Confederacy from Richmond as Grant closed in. At Irwinville, the state of Georgia in 1935 erected a monument to Davis to mark the spot where he was captured by federal troops.

Residents of Fitzgerald believe that the section to be paved, when lined with dogwood and crepe myrtle, will be an added attraction for tourists.

P-T. A. To Hold School

All members of the executive committee of the Home Park elementary school P-T. A. are urged to attend a school of instruction at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow at the home of Miss May Taylor, principal, 485 N. Highland avenue, N. E. Mrs. Charles L. Mathews, organization president, has announced.

Vernon Pickering Named to Annapolis

Vernon Leslie Pickering, son of Maj. and Mrs. L. W. Pickering, of Rome, formerly of Atlanta, has been appointed a midshipman in the United States Naval Academy.

Enlisting in the Navy last September, Pickering went from the Memphis Naval Air Station to New Orleans. Later transferring to the V-12 program, an opportunity he won in competition with other members of the fleet, he was sent to Georgia Tech before his acceptance at Annapolis.

A native of West Palm Beach, Fla., Pickering was a Georgia Tech Yellow Jacket prior to his enlistment in the Navy. During his two years of civilian schooling at Tech he was a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity and active in sports, winning the 1943 Southeastern Conference medal for discus tossing.

Man's Skeleton Found Lying Under Knotted Belt on Tree

By KEELER MCCARTNEY.

State officers are investigating what they describe as either a bizarre murder or suicide as indicated by the finding recently of a skeleton of a man in a secluded spot near a roadside 10 miles south of Dalton. It lay sprawled grotesquely under an improvised noose swinging from the limb of a tree.

The man has been tentatively identified as Oscar Tillman Johnson, 45, of 234 Rathbone avenue, Macon, whose wife reported he had been missing since he disappeared from Griffin about a month ago. He had gone there to go to work. Tentative identification was made by the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, working in co-operation with Col. J. N. Keelin, state director of selective service.

The body was discovered late Saturday by a hunter.

The noose, suspended eight feet from the ground, was made from a man's belt, according to Maj. W. E. Spence, head of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation. Spence said the belt was missing from the clothing found around the skeleton.

All laundry marks had been removed from the clothing, Spence said, and all identification had been taken from a wallet found in a trouser pocket. GBI officials reported finding 71 cents in change in the front right-hand trouser pocket.

PUZZLING CIRCUMSTANCE

Another thing puzzling officers—if the death was a suicide—is how the man could have managed to hang himself without a block or something to stand on after fastening the noose around his neck. They point out that he might have perched on the limb and jumped after fastening the noose, but to them that theory is unlikely, since the head must have been held closely to the limb because of the comparative shortness of the belt.

The only means of identification left open to investigating officers was a badly torn selective service registration card found in a hole in the ground five feet away from the tree.

Apparently the body was suspended by the improvised noose until it was completely decomposed, Spence said. He estimated that the death occurred at least two months ago. There was no evidence that the clothing had been torn away by vultures.

The identity of the man must be definitely established before any progress can be made to determine whether his death was a suicide or the result of a murder planned to resemble a suicide, Spence explained. He said that he hoped to be able to identify the man positively soon.

When, and if this is done, state officers will launch an investigation, in co-operation with the Whitfield county authorities, to determine whether or not the death was a murder.

GOOD QUALITY CLOTHES

The clothing found around the skeleton was of good quality, indicating that the man was in better than average circumstances, Spence said. He added that investigators had discovered no clues as to where it was purchased.

Finding the 71 cents in the trouser pocket does not obviate a robbery-murder theory, officers point out, since no money and no identification was found in the wallet.

Garbagemen Strike Perils Health Cars

Refusal of mechanics at the municipal garage to cross a picket line established by striking garbage truck drivers threatens continued operation of police cars and ambulances. Grady hospital ambulances, and taxis, rat and mosquito control activities of the health department, but administration leaders moved promptly to avert a possible crisis.

Improved repair shops were established in the basement of the police station and other mechanics who did not strike but regarded the picket line as "too sacred to violate by crossing it," were assigned to other strategic points where services might be needed.

While the new crisis was being averted, H. J. Cates, sanitary department chief, said scores of tons of refuse were being moved on the fifth day of the strike, with 30 of the department's 44 trucks operating with a crew of 100 Negro loaders. The Negroes who stayed off their jobs last week after threats had been made against their safety, began to trek back to their posts in large numbers yesterday.

The trucks yesterday hauled 236 tons and private citizens carted another 30 tons to the incinerator as collections more nearly approached the normal 325-ton accumulation a day for this season of the year. Cates said he expects an even better showing today.

NO COMPROMISE
Mayor Hartsfield branded the five-day-old strike and the latest developments as an "issue between orderly democratic government and rule by force and intimidation," and added, "with such

QUISLING QUEASY, TRIAL POSTPONED

OSLO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Vidkun Quisling was too weak to appear in court today and his treason trial was postponed until Wednesday.

It was disclosed two eminent Norwegian physicians had examined the defendant and pronounced him sane. Quisling was examined at Judge Erik Solem's request.

As a result of the trial postponement a verdict is not expected until Sept. 3.

an issue, there will be no compromise."

Frank Wilson, superintendent of Grady hospital, said all his ambulances are now operating but added he will take whatever steps he can to see that the public is served if the need for emergency repairs arises.

Three striking drivers of city sanitary department trucks and a soldier sympathizer charged with attacking garbage truck drivers and helpers Sunday, have been released under bond at police headquarters and are scheduled to appear in recorder's court at 4:30 p. m. today.

Police Capt. L. J. Carroll and Patrolmen E. L. Sikes and E. O. Mullen said the four had been identified in a police lineup as the men who made four attacks on the sanitary truck workers.

Police listed the four as C. C. Whitehead, 30, of 308 Washington street, S.W., assault and battery $200 bond; Albert D. Stanley, 38, of 444 Crew street, S.W., three counts of assault and battery, $600 bond; Andrew Maddox, soldier, of Macon, two counts of assault and battery, $1,000 bond; J. M. Banks, 200 Lowry street, disorderly conduct—disturbance, $50 bond.

SECOND PICKET LINE

The strikers, whose jobs have been declared vacant, threw a second picket line about city divisions yesterday. They supplemented one they had established at the King and Hunter street sanitary department parking lot with a second one at the crematory to which sanitary equipment was moved Saturday in a futile effort to avoid the spread of the effects of the strike to the garage.

Dr. James F. Hickey, director of the city health department, said all his equipment including that in the mosquito and rat control division is moving again and said the men are conscientiously attempting to absorb the work which piled up as a result of four days' idleness. Drivers for the mosquito and rat control divisions were back on the job yesterday after having been out since the strike started last Wednesday.

WANT DOLLAR BONUS

The strike began when 118 equipment operators on the sanitary, construction, parks and health departments left their jobs after the mayor and council had failed to approve a $1-a-day bonus for their positions. Since then five of the striking men have returned to their posts, and the places of the remainder have been declared vacant.

Employment of drivers to take the place of the strikers has posed no great problem to the city, but the threats against the Negro loaders have kept many of the 150 odd loaders from returning to work and has produced a bottleneck in loading available trucks. The city is still hiring all Negro loaders who apply for the vacant posts.

FDR Approved Elliott's Loan, Says Report

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A member of the House Ways and Means Committee quipped John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, today as saying that the late President Roosevelt approved a $200,000 loan Hartford made to Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt.

A statement by Hartford, and another deposition by Jesse Jones, former Commerce secretary, dealing with young Roosevelt's financial affairs, were read to the committee today behind closed doors.

The committee did not formally make public the information in the documents. However, some members discussed them freely with reporters, but asked that their names not be used.

One member said Hartford's statement set forth that the grocery chain president had told young Roosevelt that he did not feel it proper to make such a loan, but that Hartford was contacted by telephone with the late President at Warm Springs, Ga., and Mr. Roosevelt expressed appreciation for the loan.

On Aug. 1, Brig. Gen. Roosevelt, second son of the President, issued a statement saying that any implication that his father "promoted or assisted" his son's affairs was a lie.

According to a committee member Jesse Jones' deposition related that the President, some months following the loan by Hartford, called the son of the president and asked him to straighten out Elliott Roosevelt's affairs.

It was reported that Jones settled the $200,000 Hartford loan for $4,000. The Ways and Means Committee ordered an inquiry when reports were published that Hartford had listed the alleged $196,000 owed by Roosevelt as a bad debt deduction in his personal income tax return.

Board Explains Denial of Pardon For Jeweler

The State Board of Pardons and Paroles has issued a statement explaining why it refused to grant either a pardon or a parole to Joseph Jacobs, now serving a year's sentence on his conviction on a charge of receiving stolen goods. The action of the board has aroused protests from various groups and the current statement explains the board's position.

The statement follows: The above-named, who was sentenced to serve one year on Feb. 23, 1945, on a charge of receiving stolen goods, became eligible for parole consideration during the month of June, 1945. The delay in passing on this case is due to the request by the board and his attorney for a public hearing.

On July 25, a hearing was held, at which time defendant's attorney made application for the issuance of a full pardon on the ground of non-guilt. The claim of innocence of the defendant was based on statements made by a number of reputable citizens that Julian Respass, who is now serving 10-30 years, admits that there was a frame-up of convicted Joseph Jacobs; that his (Respass') dealings in selling stolen articles were with the manager of the Allied Jewelry, Wyatt, and Joe Jacobs did not have knowledge of any of the crooked transactions. As part of the hearing, Julian Respass was brought before five of the men who claimed he had told them that Joe Jacobs was not involved in receiving stolen goods and that he testified falsely as a witness for the state in the prosecution of Joe Jacobs. Julian Respass denied ever retracting or changing the testimony as given at the Joe Jacobs trial.

The board is not favorably impressed with the evidence on which the defendant was found guilty, namely, the testimony of witness Wyatt, who was granted immunity by the state, and the testimony of Julian Respass, a convicted burglar. However, there has been nothing shown to the board which would justify setting aside the verdict of the jury. The board believes that the sentence of one year was extremely light in comparison with the 10-30 years imposed on the witness, Julian Respass, who burglarized the house, knowing that he could dispose of the loot through the Allied Jewelry Company, which was owned by the prisoner, Joe Jacobs.

In consideration of this case, the board concludes that the prisoner should be held more accountable for his criminal action because of his opportunities, training and experience in the legal profession. It is the board's further opinion that this scheme to profit by the burglarizing of homes created a serious menace, endangering the property and lives of the members of this community. Taking this into consideration, the type of the offense committed, and the shortness of the sentence, the board does not feel that it would be for the best interest of society for Jacobs to be released on parole. Therefore, the application for parole is hereby denied.

This 20th day of August, 1945. The State Board of Pardons and Paroles, Edward B. Everett, Chairman; G. C. Evers, Member; Helen Williams Coxson, Member.

LeCraw Demands Grand Jury Probe Of Strike Rumor

Roy LeCraw, candidate for mayor in the forthcoming Sept. 5 election, has written a letter to Solicitor General E. E. Andrews demanding that the grand jury investigate the present garbage strike.

His letter follows:

Dear Mr. Andrews: I have been charged, by inference at least, with having had a part in inciting the present garbage strike for political purposes. This is an utterly false charge made for the purpose of embarrassing my campaign for mayor, and I demand that the grand jury make a thorough investigation to determine, first, if the strike has been caused by any political influences; and, secondly, if that is true, who caused it?

I am informed by a responsible man, whose name I will be glad to give to the grand jury, that he interviewed Mr. Hartfield in the city hall prior to the starting of the strike and that Mr. Hartfield stated a strike would help him politically.

I believe, therefore, that it is in the public interest for the grand jury to thoroughly investigate the charges of "politics" in this present garbage strike and inform the public if any candidates are responsible. I will welcome an opportunity to appear before the grand jury and hold myself subject to your call.

Yours for a greater Atlanta,
ROY LECRAW.

Ansley Lets $250,000 Jobs For Improvement

In line with the $5,000,000 post-war expansion plans of the hotels of Atlanta, the Ansley hotel already has let contracts for renovations costing $250,000.

The Henry Grady, the Piedmont, the Biltmore and the Wincoff have already announced programs which will reach a cost of several millions of dollars.

Carling J. Dinkler, of the Dinkler hotels, said that Burge & Stephens, architects, have already prepared the plans for the Dinkler improvements and that contracts are now in effect. Work will begin as soon as materials are available.

Later on, Dinkler contemplates extensive additions to the Ansley. But he said yesterday that it would be "a little premature" to talk about them now.

Dinkler said that renovations on the cards for the Ansley are:

A new face for the front of the hotel; complete redecoration of the Rainbow Roof; a new lobby; addition of 20 private dining rooms and meeting rooms, and air-conditioning in every room of the hotel.

"We intend that these improvements, costing $250,000, shall begin as soon as possible," Dinkler said. "Later on, we expect to build some additions, but have not yet reached the point of figuring on the cost."

Truman Branded Traitor in Leaflets In Greece

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 27.—(AP) Newspaper correspondents said they understood Nicholas Zachariades, leader of the Greek Communist organization KKE, to say today that British troops must clear out of Greece and give Greeks a chance to settle their own domestic affairs, but Communist headquarters immediately issued a statement saying the correspondents misunderstood Zachariades.

In answer to a question as to what might happen if British troops were withdrawn, the correspondents understood Zachariades to say, "Civil war will follow and in this way within two months the situation will be settled."

The reported statements caused a sensation in British military circles as well as at the KKE center, and former Greek Premier George Tsouderos declared Zachariades' remarks were "so stupendous that I cannot believe them."

The Communist leader made his statement shortly after thousands of unsigned leaflets violently attacking President Truman, British Prime Minister Attlee and Foreign Secretary Bevin were circulated in Athens and Piraeus.

"The people have been convinced that behind these traitors is hidden Truman with his terrible weapon, the oppressive atomic bomb," said the leaflets. "The Laborites betrayed the British people and those who trusted them," said the papers in their attack on Attlee, who was called a "serf and humble servant of plutocracy."

"He condemned democracy and free regimes of liberal Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Romania."

Dean Acheson Sworn In As 'State's Chief Aide

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Dean G. Acheson was sworn in today as undersecretary of state in a simple ceremony in the office of Secretary of State Byrnes.

James E. McKenna, special assistant to the secretary of state, administered the oath to the tall, mustachioed, 52-year-old lawyer, who succeeds Joseph C. Grew.

Acheson has been assistant secretary of state in charge of congressional relations and international conferences.

End Brings No Let-Up On Draft Case Probes

Approximately 500 draft evasion cases, which were pending in the U. S. attorney's office here when the war ended, will be investigated and prosecuted without let-up, at the direction of Atty. Gen. Tom Clark.

Asst. United States Attorneys Harvey H. Tisinger and F. Douglas King, who handle selective service matters for the northern district of Georgia, promised speedy disposition of cases made against violators of the wartime law which covered men between the ages of 18 and 38. In addition, they will continue to receive complaints from local draft boards against violators in the 18-26 age group, eligible for military service since the war ended.

Since the Selective Service and Training Act was passed in 1940, the district attorney's office here has investigated, prosecuted and disposed of more than 5,000 cases, the attorney said.

Milk Delivery Issues Set for Airing

State milk producers, distributors and consumers, will attend a public hearing at 11 a. m. Sept. 4 to discuss the permanent continuation of the wartime milk delivery schedule, according to State Milk Control Director George Stewart.

"Milk distributors want to continue the three-times-a-week delivery system, instead of going back to the daily delivery plan," Stewart said yesterday. "It appears to be working satisfactorily with producers and consumers. With modern refrigerators in homes, milk is easily kept several days, and the lack of daily deliveries does not seem to work a hardship."

Highland Avenue Trackless Trolley and Bus Service Begins Next Monday

Beginning next Monday, September 3, a new trackless trolley line and a new bus line will go in operation—replacing streetcar service on the Highland Avenue line.

The trackless trolleys will have Forrest-Noble or Forrest-Lanier destination signs. They will be connected with the Stewart Avenue trackless trolley line. The new buses will have Highland-Ponce de Leon signs.

They will give better, faster, more convenient service for the patrons served by the present streetcar line. The trackless trolleys will not only provide a shorter route to town, but express service as well during rush hours.

Removal of street cars from Highland Avenue will help solve a serious traffic situation.

This first step in the Georgia Power Company's $5,000,000 modernization program is made possible by the lifting of restrictions on the use of tires. Other improvements will follow rapidly, as soon as construction work can be completed and as soon as new vehicles, now on order, are delivered.

Within two years, the program will be completed—giving Atlanta a thoroughly up-to-date transportation system. It will be one of the City's greatest post-war assets.

Georgia Power Company

THE NEW ROUTINGS

Please study this map to learn the new trackless trolley and bus routes, as well as minor changes in other lines. Numbered paragraphs below correspond to numbers on the map.

1. The end of the trackless trolley line will be at Noble Drive, but some trackless trolleys will turn back at Lanier Place in rush hours.
2. The end of the Virginia Avenue bus line will be at McVinn Street, instead of Noble Drive. Riders living beyond that point will be served by trackless trolleys.
3. The Highland-Ponce de Leon bus line will end at a loop formed by North Highland, Ponce de Leon, Seminole and Vaud Street.
4. During rush hours, trackless trolleys will operate express between town and Ashley Avenue. Inside the express zone, in rush hours, outbound trolleys will not discharge passengers; inbound trolleys will not pick up passengers.

5. The end of the Pine-Forrest bus line will be at Eggleston hospital, instead of at Forrest and Linwood. Riders living beyond Eggleston will be served by the trackless trolley.

6. Temporary routings of the Highland-Ponce de Leon bus line on Jackson Street, instead of Hilliard, is made necessary by paving conditions.

7. Highland-Ponce de Leon buses will turn back in town by way of Houston, Ivy, Edgewood and Pryor.

8. South Pryor-Federal Prison streetcars will turn back in town, instead of operating through to Highland Avenue. The route will be: South Pryor, Decatur, Marietta, Broad and Mitchell. Forrest-Noble trolleys will operate through town on Peachtree and Whitehall to Stewart Avenue.

Japan Captives to Start Home As Soon as Allies Land

MANILA, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Evacuation of American and Allied prisoners of war by plane and ship will start "almost simultaneously" with entry of occupation troops into Japan, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Many prisoners in China and Manchuria also will be evacuated through Manila, in addition to those from Japan and Korea, headquarters said.

The Red Cross said 5,000 messages from relatives in the United States—most of them including pictures of wives, mothers and children—were received today by special transport for distribution to the prisoners soon to be released and brought to the Manila area. For most of them the messages will be the first direct word from home in months.

VETS OF BATAAN, WAKE

Recovered prisoners in the China and Manchuria areas first will be processed by the Allied recovered personnel units under Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commanding United States forces in China.

Many of the prisoners, said the headquarters statement, are veterans of Bataan and Wake Island. The prisoner evacuation plans call for more than 70 Allied covered personnel units moving in with the occupation forces. It is expected the first plane loads of evacuees will be on the way to Manila within two or three days after the first landings. In Manila, the evacuees will be sent to replacement depots and hospitals.

NOTIFY FAMILIES
Among the first jobs of the recovered personnel units will be notification of the families of the prisoners. At each camp prisoners will be provided with forms on which they will enter their names and next of kin. The forms will be cleared to Manila by air courier where headquarters will radio notifications to the War Department for transmission to the next of kin.

In addition, the released prisoners will be allowed to send 10-word personal messages to any designated addressee.

Attempts will be made to place the prisoners on planes or ships for their homes within five days of their arrival in Manila. It is estimated 30 per cent of the prisoners will require hospitalization in Manila.

The prisoner recovery units will include Australian, British and

German Spy Caught Posing As Argentine

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(UP)—A long search begun last fall led to the arrest in Trinidad of Hans Rudolph Christin Zuehlendorf, a German spy posing as a citizen of Argentina, the Federal Bureau of Investigation announced today.

Zuehlendorf, 25, arrested Aug. 9 by British authorities, was brought to Miami, Fla., Sunday night and is being held for further action by United States authorities, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said. At the time of his arrest, he was a passenger on a Spanish boat and was using the alias Juan Vicente Martinez Collens.

The hunt for Zuehlendorf began after two Nazi agents landed on the Maine coast from a submarine last fall. It was disclosed then that he and two other Nazis, Oscar Max Williams and Max Christian Johannes Schneemann, were being groomed for assignments to gain vital information on Allied military and political intentions.

Zuehlendorf had spent most of his life in Latin America, working for German firms there and was prominent in Nazi activities, which resulted in his expulsion from Colombia.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—Not an especially auspicious day for dealings with those in high positions. From 3 p. m. and throughout the remainder of the day use care in contacts with others and be especially careful of what you are signing your name to.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—The entire day suggests that you control yourself and act with discretion and caution, particularly where money matters are concerned for the tendency is towards extravagance and miscalculation.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—Before 10:30 a. m. may be a slow period and you may find it difficult to keep affairs going. The remainder of the day seems filled with favorable influences. Be careful to keep your thoughts to yourself, for today will be a time when arguments flare up easily, and those in whom you are bound by the closest ties of friendship will be the recipient of your harsh feelings.

July 23-Aug. 22 (LEO)—Before 8:30 p. m. you can meet or feel a sympathy which will aid you to obtain a better response to your efforts. Between 8:30 a. m. and 2:40 p. m. use special care in travel, communications, and dealings with close friends and relatives.

Aug. 23-Sept. 22 (VIRGO)—The day as a whole is one to attend to private interests. Don't make expansions along ordinary lines, or whatever your usual business activities may be.

Sept. 23-Oct. 22 (LIBRA)—Keeness and alertness will be noticed in your dealings and a general attitude of harmony will surround your business transactions today. After 12:40 noon be careful of sharp speech and undue aggression.

Oct. 23-Nov. 21 (SCORPIO)—New beginnings today are likely to demand much hard work and small remuneration. You may find it difficult to remain cheerful, but by attending to work already started and by giving your attention to something that you have put off and had a dread of undertaking, much good can be accomplished.

Nov. 22-Dec. 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—The entire day should be one when you should find support and attain favors. Plan to go after the things you desire in financial, professional and literary pursuits.

Dec. 22-Jan. 19 (CAPRICORN)—Previous to 11:15 a. m. you are apt to meet stubborn resistance in your efforts, making this an inauspicious time for new beginnings.

Jan. 20-Feb. 18 (AQUARIUS)—There may be a tendency to push matters, or feel a high tension in your feelings before 10:10 a. m., so use care that you do not start a quarrel.

Feb. 19-March 20 (PISCES)—Earnest work today will meet with satisfactory achievement. There are likely to be many accidents today, or a great deal of darning riding. Between 8:12 p. m. and 11:38 p. m. guard against being too sure of yourself.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—Before 10:30 a. m. may be a slow period and you may find it difficult to keep affairs going. The remainder of the day seems filled with favorable influences. Be careful to keep your thoughts to yourself, for today will be a time when arguments flare up easily, and those in whom you are bound by the closest ties of friendship will be the recipient of your harsh feelings.

July 23-Aug. 22 (LEO)—Before 8:30 p. m. you can meet or feel a sympathy which will aid you to obtain a better response to your efforts. Between 8:30 a. m. and 2:40 p. m. use special care in travel, communications, and dealings with close friends and relatives.

Aug. 23-Sept. 22 (VIRGO)—The day as a whole is one to attend to private interests. Don't make expansions along ordinary lines, or whatever your usual business activities may be.

Sept. 23-Oct. 22 (LIBRA)—Keeness and alertness will be noticed in your dealings and a general attitude of harmony will surround your business transactions today. After 12:40 noon be careful of sharp speech and undue aggression.

Oct. 23-Nov. 21 (SCORPIO)—New beginnings today are likely to demand much hard work and small remuneration. You may find it difficult to remain cheerful, but by attending to work already started and by giving your attention to something that you have put off and had a dread of undertaking, much good can be accomplished.

Nov. 22-Dec. 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—The entire day should be one when you should find support and attain favors. Plan to go after the things you desire in financial, professional and literary pursuits.

Dec. 22-Jan. 19 (CAPRICORN)—Previous to 11:15 a. m. you are apt to meet stubborn resistance in your efforts, making this an inauspicious time for new beginnings.

Jan. 20-Feb. 18 (AQUARIUS)—There may be a tendency to push matters, or feel a high tension in your feelings before 10:10 a. m., so use care that you do not start a quarrel.

Feb. 19-March 20 (PISCES)—Earnest work today will meet with satisfactory achievement. There are likely to be many accidents today, or a great deal of darning riding. Between 8:12 p. m. and 11:38 p. m. guard against being too sure of yourself.

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—Not an especially auspicious day for dealings with those in high positions. From 3 p. m. and throughout the remainder of the day use care in contacts with others and be especially careful of what you are signing your name to.

CAB Examiners Okay 2 Airlines To Fly to Tokyo

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Civil aeronautics board examiners today recommended that two airlines be permitted to fly to Tokyo, Japan, as an intermediate point on Pacific routes.

The examiners' recommendations were made as part of a report on the Pacific case. Airlines which would be allowed to fly to Tokyo if the examiners' report is accepted are Pan-American Airways, Inc., and Northwest Airlines, Inc.

Recommendations made by Examiners Ross I. Newmann and Lawrence J. Kosteris follow:

1. That a certificate be issued to Northwest authorizing service for a period of seven years between the co-terminal points, New York and Chicago; the intermediate points, Edmonton, Canada; Anchorage, Alaska; Paramushiro, Kurile islands; Tokyo; Shanghai, China; Hongkong, and the terminal point, Manila, Philippine Islands.

2. That Pan-American's certificate be amended so as to extend its Central Pacific route (A) from the intermediate point, Midway Island via the intermediate points, Tokyo, Shanghai, Hongkong and Bangkok, Thailand, to the terminal point, Calcutta, India; (B) from the intermediate point, Manila, via the intermediate point, Singapore, to the terminal point, Batavia, Java, and (C) that such amendment be limited to a period of seven years.

3. That Pan-American be authorized to provide nonstop service between Honolulu, Hawaii, and Wake Island.

4. That Pan-American's certificate be amended to provide for service between Noumea, New Caledonia, and Sydney, Australia.

Navy To Slash Personnel to 550,000 in Year

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Secretary of Navy Forrestal said today the Navy hopes to reduce to 550,000 men and 50,000 officers within a year.

This will mean the discharge of 2,839,000 men. The Navy's present strength is 3,389,000.

At the same time, Forrestal disclosed at a news conference, the Navy is revising its discharge point system to provide credit for overseas service, a factor omitted when the discharge plan was announced a few days ago.

Forrestal said the plan would be revised within about two months to include the overseas service credit. He emphasized that point needed for discharge will not be increased when the overseas service is established and the point values of other factors will not be decreased.

At present, the Navy discharge system allows credit for age, length of service and dependency. One-half point is given for each year of age, one-half point for each month of duty since Sept. 1, 1939, and 10 points for dependency regardless of the number of dependents.

The critical scores for discharge are 44 for enlisted male personnel, 29 for enlisted WAVES, 49 for male officers and 35 for WAVES officers.

Forrestal said the Navy had hoped originally to provide credit for overseas service but lacked the proper records and decided not to delay the establishment of a discharge plan until those records could be completed. He pointed out that 93 per cent of Navy personnel, exclusive of those in training, have had overseas service and the addition of the overseas credit might not materially alter the order of discharge.

France Gets Credit
WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—France was reported in government financial quarters tonight to have been offered an American credit arrangement worth $650,000,000 toward continuing the flow of rehabilitation goods which were halted when the lend-lease program ceased.

The WORRY CLINIC

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

(If you want to insure your child against being a wallflower or prevent him from developing a psychoneurosis, be sure to give him a brother or sister before he enters kindergarten. Notice the socializing effect of other children on Danny today.)

CASE G-262: Danny, aged 9, is next to the youngest of our five youngsters.

He seems to be developing into the joker of our family, for he greatly relishes making the rest of the family laugh, either by his tricks and funny antics, or the jokes which he hears at school.

The other afternoon he and the others were playing hide-and-seek in the bath tub, for the light wasn't on and the room was fairly dark.

In the next round of the game, David was "it." But while Danny was in the front of the house, Philip, aged 14, decided to trick Danny and thus set the stage for his joke.

"No, that's my place. I found it first," Danny exclaimed, so Philip gave in; though with apparent reluctance.

Danny then rushed into the bathroom, and vaulted over the side of the tub.

"Ker-splash" came the next sound, followed by "Hey, you, Philip!"

For Philip had partly filled the tub, in anticipation, knowing that Danny wouldn't turn on the light when he tried to hide there a second time.

It was such a good joke, however, that even Danny had to laugh at himself, as he sloshed out of the bathroom with his shoes filled.

INSURANCE AGAINST GULLIBILITY
Danny will never hide in a tub again without being a little more cautious.

Such play with a family of brothers and sisters will thus reduce a child's later gullibility. He will be educated to many forms of trickery and conventional jokes, so he will be somewhat sophisticated.

Education is not a generalized, brain-truster affair. It is simply the sum total of hundreds or thousands of specific techniques for meeting concrete problems and situations.

If you deprive your son or daughter of brothers and sisters, you thus limit the number of these specific educational experiences which the child will receive in your home.

Youngsters educate each other in many ways. They chatter more or less incessantly and thus more speedily prod the toddler into acquiring language.

They bring home new ideas from school, and soon the younger children are informed about them. They engage in quarrels and fights, all of which help develop the give-and-take that makes better husbands and wives in later life.

TEACH CHILDREN SOCIABILITY
An "only" child may be aloof and shy when he starts to school, thus lack a sense of social unity in the games of his playmates.

He is likely to be more gullible, too, for he has missed the daily inter-stimulation of youngsters who have brothers and sisters.

Besides, he is not so likely to run and romp, for a lonely child misses such athletic stimulation. Parents do not equal other children as regards many of these educational influences, so don't penalize your youngster by depriving him of brothers and sisters.

New Fashions Will Require Small Waistline

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

With fashions featuring the waist, and fat encircling this middle measurement, you scarcely know which way to turn! Well, the turn should be smack at the waist, bend center. Like this...

Position: Sit on the floor, cross legs, bend elbows at shoulder level, hands in front of chest.

Movement: Swing right arm forward at shoulder level, then to the side and back as far as you can. Let the twist be at the waistline. Head and trunk twist in same direction, and the inactive arm should be kept well back to straighten the shoulders. Repeat six times. It's important to pull up slim with the lower abdominal muscles and to lift the chest as you exercise.

Then add a bend... Position: Sitting on the floor, legs straight out, knees straight, place hands back of head, fingertips touching.

Movement: The exercise is to twist agilely at the waist, bend forward and touch left elbow to left knee. Then back to position, pull slim through the middle, twist at waist and bending forward, touch right elbow to right knee. Later, when the muscles that bend the waist limber up, increase the twist to touch elbow to opposite knee. Keep knees on floor, and abdominal muscles pulled up snugly. No fair slumping!

Increase the bend... Position: Sit on the floor, legs stretched apart, arms outstretched overhead.

Movement: Holding arms close against the ears, pulled slim through the middle, bend sideways and touch fingers of both hands to outstretched toes. Back to position, pull up again and bending to the opposite side, touch fingers to toes. That is a thorough-going stretch.

These exercises are result-getters for the reason that hips are anchored, the movement has to center at the midriff and the fat gives.

These three exercises are sufficient to bring a wandering waist to terms. "Terms" mean a waistline eight inches less than the bust measurement and weight normal for structure. The short girl has to work a little harder, for not only does more fat tend to gather round the waist, but it shows up quicker.

Other exercises are contained in the leaflet "Waistlines & Belts." All requests for leaflets must be accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope, with 3 cents in coin or stamps to cover cost of handling.

Shirley Kept Busy With Trousseau

HOLLYWOOD.—Lana Turner's "breakdown" has been exaggerated greatly. The gal is simply in need of a rest... Shirley Temple is busy as a little beaver, rushing her trousseau for the wedding with Sgt. John Agar. The first thing Shirley will do after the marriage is fire the bodyguard who has followed her footsteps for the past 10 years. It's one of the reasons she is getting married so soon...

John Garfield has agreed to sign with Warners to make one picture a year for the next seven years—if they agree that he can make pictures in England and Russia and be completely free to choose plays on Broadway...

Bette Davis did not go to New York after all. She is resting at Laguna Beach before retakes on her "A Stolen Life."

Poor Jacqueline White! She really thought she had "arrived" at her big chance when Metro gave her the wife role opposite Gregory Peck in "The Yearling." She worked with him in Florida for several weeks and now has been fired from the picture. Her scenes will be reshot with Jane Wyman. Reason for the change—Miss White is said to be too inexperienced to handle the big part.

Lauren Bacall says she will have nothing to do with "Stallion Road," the Errol Flynn starrer. In the first place, she loathes the title and in the second, she—and the public—wants another picture with Humphrey Bogart.

Lt. Wayne Morris expects to be out of uniform in three weeks and working again in pictures. Wayne was a naval flier for four and a half years and covered himself with glory... Hedy Lamarr has Husband John Leder on the job, trying to find that loose print of "Ecstasy" that keeps turning up in the United States. Her first husband, Fritz Mandl, thought he had cornered all the prints of the movie shortly after he married the beautiful Hedy.

Miss Mullinix Is Married To Staff Sgt. Howell Jones

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Mullinix, of Woodstock, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Frances Elizabeth Mullinix, of Atlanta and Woodstock, to T. Sgt. Howell Madison Jones, U. S. Army, who recently returned after a year's duty in the European theater of operations. The ceremony took place at the parsonage of the Stewart Avenue Methodist church, with the Rev. Harry Smith officiating.

The lovely young bride chose for her wedding an aquamarine ring and a matching flower hat. Her accessories were of black patent, and her flowers were orchids and tuberose.

Mrs. George W. Simpson Jr. was matron of honor. She was attired in a gray suit, worn with black accessories and a cluster of red roses. Pvt. Norman W. Smith was best man. A group of friends and relatives of the young couple witnessed the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Canton High school, and at the time of her marriage was connected with Standard Brands, Inc.

Sgt. Jones is the younger son of Mrs. Sarah L. Jones and the late Paul Jones, and is the brother of Paul Jones Jr. and Misses Katherine and Anne Jones. He is the grandson of the late Rev. Samuel P. Jones, one of the best known ministers of southern Methodism, and the late Mrs. Jones, and of Mrs. Emily Catherine Booker and the late E. A. Booker. The bridegroom was associated with the Constitution until he entered the Army. He saw service in England, France and Germany, having returned to the States one month ago. He and his bride reside at Ft. Benning, where Sgt.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Raising of Carrier Pigeons Is Hobby of Ben Smith Jr.

Several years ago, while Jane and Ben Smith were residing in Jackson, Tenn., their 10-year-old son, Ben Jr., became very enthusiastic over carrier pigeons, so his father bought several pairs and young Ben had the time of his life caring for them. But since the Smiths returned to Atlanta, Ben's interest in pigeons has increased to such an extent that he is now raising them. All of the birds are registered and pedigreed. Some are blue-checked, others are blue-barred, still others are a beautiful brown and others have pure white necks and tails.

Ben will be in the fifth grade when E. Rivers school opens next week. Each morning before leaving home he must first see that his pets have been fed, watered and properly attended. Sometimes he takes a pigeon to school with him, and upon his arrival there turns it loose, perhaps with a message for his mother tied to its foot. Ben Jr. frequently takes pigeons to his office and straight-away sends them back home.

Raising carrier pigeons is a fascinating hobby and Ben Jr. goes about it in a very serious fashion. He subscribes to Pigeon News and reads it religiously in order to keep posted on the latest pigeon data. He and his Cub Scout friends get untold fun from sending messages by the pigeons which, according to Ben, must be starved for one day in order that they will return promptly to their cote, mate or squab.

ZANIER DOWNS RETURNS HOME

Zanier Downs returned to her home in Thomaston during the weekend without her customary enthusiasm. You see, it meant the termination of a delightful visit to her uncle and aunt, Bob and Elma Adams, on Arden road. And it also meant a grand summer vacation was nearing an end, for next week will find her resuming her classes at Robert E. Lee Institute.

Zanier is the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Downs, of Thomaston, and she is as popular as she is pretty, her visit here having been marked by numerous parties. Her aunt, Mrs. Adams, entertained at luncheon and a swimming party at the Capital City Country Club in her honor, and Sue Adams gave a soft drink party at her home on Stovall boulevard. Zanier was also central figure at the luncheon given by Consuelo Abrey at the Mirador Room, and also at Winnifred Shackelford's luncheon at the same place.

FATES ARE KIND

Vee Swanson's classmate at Stephens College, Janette Griggs, invited her to be an attendant at her marriage which was to take place when Janette's fiancé, where he had been with the Eighth Air Force. Vee was filled with excitement over the approaching wedding but weeks went by and no word came from Janette as to the date.

About ten days ago Vee was invited by a group of friends to motor to New York for a visit of two weeks. She accepted on the spot. Just before leaving she received a message from Janette that the groom-elect had arrived and the wedding would take place on Aug. 22.

ALL OF VEE'S PLANS COINCIDED AND SHE IS HAVING A WONDERFUL TIME.

Baptist Church Is Setting For Harrison-North Rites

The Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church formed the setting yesterday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Florence Carter Harrison, beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carter Clanton Harrison, to Hugh D. North Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. North.

Dr. Lester Rumble officiated at 5:30 o'clock in a musical program was presented by Mrs. Charles Chalmers. The altar was banked with arrangements of palms and ferns before which were placed urns and floor baskets filled with gladioli and calla lilies. Seven-branched cathedral candelabra held white tapers which cast a soft glow over the wedding scene.

Usher-groomsman were Willie Davis, Maj. E. F. Stovall, of Orlando, Fla., Hane Steadman, of Augusta, and S. Sgt. Neil Sneaker.

Miss Helen Pride Craig, of Mobile, Ala., and Columbia, S. C., was maid of honor. She was gowning in a quaint model of steel blue faille, made with a tight bodice and a long torso. She wore mittens of matching material and a bandeau of mixed flowers in her hair. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of garden flowers.

The other attendants, who were gowning in similar models and carried similar bouquets, were Mrs. W. V. West, of Savannah, who was the matron of honor, Mrs. Rembert DuBois, of Aberdeen, Md.; Mrs. R. O. Smith Jr., and Miss Anne Burney who were bridesmaids.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Oglesby, B. L. Milling, J. C. Williams and M. D. Berry, W. B. Saunders served as groomsmen.

The bride was a beautiful brunet with blue eyes, entered with her father who gave her in marriage and was met at the altar by the groom and his father who was best man. She was handsomely gowning in duchess satin fashioned with a yoke of Chantilly lace. The train was several yards in length, and her illusion veil was caught to a Juliet cap trimmed with a coronet of orange blossoms.

Her flowers were a nosegay of gardenias showered with swainsons.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison entertained at a reception at their home on Peachtree Hills avenue. Mrs. Harrison received her guests wearing a gown of gray crepe trimmed in steel and crystal. Her blue velvet hat was trimmed with blue ostrich tips and rosebuds. Her flowers were orchids. Mrs. North, the groom's mother, wore an aqua gown, combining a lace bodice and a tulie skirt. Her hat was of white and purple flowers, and her flowers were purple orchids.

Miss Mary Jane Schumacher kept the bride's book, and assisting in entertaining were Messdames J. Roy Gentry, William C. Key, J. R. Raley Jr., L. P. Latham, George For, Thomas Morgan, Miss Annette Neville, of Walhalla, S. C.; Misses Cortez Cooleage, Lucy Bryant, Frances Blythe, Barbara Keeler, Jeanne Carlson, Betty Burress, Marion Knight and Anne Hoyt.

White gladioli and calla lilies were used as the decorations throughout the home, and the bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and was centered with a three-tiered cake.

Mr. North and his bride left for a wedding trip to the mountains, and upon their return will reside here. The bride traveled in a gray gabardine suit worn with brown accessories and a fur scarf. Completing her ensemble was a cluster of white orchids.

Miss Long Is Wed To S. Sgt. Hasty
Miss Margaret Jane Long, daughter of Mrs. James Monroe Long, of Watauga, Tenn., and the late Dr. Long, was married last evening to S. Sgt. Graham S. Hasty, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Hasty, of Mebane, N. C.

The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock at the Virginia Avenue Baptist church, with Dr. J. Omer Jones officiating. A musical program was presented by Mrs. C. S. Connell, pianist, and Mrs. George Lathan, soloist.

Ushers were F. A. Oglesby, B. L. Milling, J. C. Williams and M. D. Berry. W. B. Saunders served as groomsmen.

The bride was becomingly gowning in white marquisette fashioned with a fitted bodice trimmed with narrow pleated ruffles. Her fingertip illusion veil was caught to a fitted cap of Venetian lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, H. H. Cook, and Dan Cowart was best man.

After the ceremony, the bride's mother, Mrs. James Monroe Long, was hostess at a reception at her home on Park Drive. Among out-of-town guests were Mrs. D. T. Hasty, Mebane, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Cook, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Miss Betty Cook, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Miss Alyce King, Covington; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh King, Covington; Miss Hughie King, Covington; Mrs. Sam Atkins, Morristown, Tenn.; Lt. Mable G. Moragne, of Cherry Point, N. C.; Mrs. Gene Farrill, Parris Island, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Farrill, Lithonia, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Garrett, Columbus; Mrs. John Garrett, Columbus, and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Certain, Portsmouth, Va.

ALL IN THE GAME JACK TROY

Night and Day NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 27.—Every time New Orleans pitcher Jack Troy wins a game he sets a new Southern League pitching record. Carpenter's latest effort, a six-hitter against Mobile, rewarded him with victory No. 21 against two defeats.

The best record of a 21-game winner previously belonged to Alvin Dark, of Little Rock. He set it in the very first year of the Southern League's existence—1901. Alvin Dark won 21 games and lost four in a full season.

Carpenter has won 21 and lost 2 in a part-time record-breaking season and still has a few more opportunities.

The next best 21-game record was established by another Atlanta pitcher, left-handed Tom Sunkel. But Sunkel lost five games in the 1938 season.

We'll grant that good fortune has been with Carpenter in that he was not charged with defeat more than twice. But he deserves the record. The laddie known as Lew has built bombers and bombed Southern League batters.

His theme song has been "Night and Day." He built bombers by day and bombed batters by night. The big Woodstock knuckle ball ace has thrived on a small amount of sleep.

He was catching up when the train pulled out of Mobile for New Orleans. Carpenter wasn't aboard. He overslept and came to the Crescent City by plane.

Other Great Feats There have been some remarkable pitching feats of the past in the Southern League. Four pitchers have finished the season with averages of .900 or better, but none of the four has come close to Carpenter's winning record. If all goes well, Carpenter will set an all-time record for percentage.

In 1927, Eddie Wells, a Birmingham lefthander, won 13 and lost 1 for a percentage of .922. Roy Walker, of New Orleans, with 12 and 1 in 1923 had a percentage of .923. Rube Robinson, the old Little Rock ace, won 11-1 for a rating of .917. Dick Robertson, of New Orleans, completed the list with 11 and 1 in 1918.

For number of games won and lost, Carpenter's smashing season will be Hall of Fame stuff. Should he lose a game between now and the close of the campaign, he still will have established a great pitching record.

Carpenter really has looked bad in only two games. He started with only two days' rest in the New Orleans series in Atlanta and was hammered rather briskly. That was the game in which a seven-run rally clipped the Pelicans' wings and possibly won a pennant for Atlanta.

Chattanooga walloped Carpenter in one of his two defeats. He lost a close game to Memphis. Scouts marvel at Carpenter's consistency. He has never been so consistent before. One season, pitching for Memphis, he won 10 straight and then lost a like number in a row.

The reason why he's having such a great year is because, after all his pitching years, he has achieved amazing control and has somehow developed a burning fast ball.

Handy Man Carpenter was praising his old Bell Bomber co-worker, LeGrant Scott, a most valuable utility man for our side.

"If I had Scott's curve ball nothing could stop me," Carpenter declared.

Scott, originally an outfielder, has great promise as a moundman. He has, as Carpenter points out, a curve ball as wide as a barn door.

Scott is still very useful as an outfielder. The former Alabama athlete is a good judge of a fly ball and can hit. He's just what the Crackers need at this stage of the game. He is available for relief pitching, pinch hitting or regular outfield duty.

Crackers Hailed Buzz Walker, the former Chattanooga baseball writer, now sports editor of the Mobile Press, hailed the Crackers as real champions following Sunday's twin triumphs of the Crackers over the Bears.

He praised their hustle and speed and spirit. Mobile fans were disgruntled as the Crackers won both games. They were riding both the players and Manager Clay Hopper. But they weren't taking any away from the Crackers, who have proved to be a very able road club.

The team that can win on the road usually manages to finish ahead in the season's play.

Ki Ki Cuyler's able leadership once again has been amply demonstrated. After all, the Crackers would have won a pennant last year if there had been a straight, instead of a split, season.

Silvertown Is Winner THOMASTON, Ga., Aug. 27.—Silvertown defeated Forsyth yesterday afternoon, 7-6, in 11 innings. McCarter being the winning pitcher.

Hill No Dodger Of Bill Longson Despite His Loss

Barto Hill is one of the few men who wanted a return go with Champion Wild Bill Longson. Usually a foe gets one taste of the mat king's punishing head scissors and body drop hold and readily decides that Longson is the man for the title.

This is not true in the case of Sailor Hill, the 230-pound Texan, who is scheduled for a return go with Wild Bill at the city auditorium Friday night in the feature of an all-star card. Hill made Longson look like one of the boys for 21 of their 22-minute encounter here two weeks ago, and it was only his carelessness that finally permitted Longson to take the decision.

This time Hill says that he will be on his toes all the way. He plans to keep on the champ all the way, avoiding the head scissors and body drop at all times. Fans practically demanded this return go, and Promoter Jones feels that it will draw a sellout house. Early advance sales of ringside and box seats have been unusually heavy.

Charles Harrison East Lake Champion

Charles Harrison, 14 years of age, yesterday won the children's golf championship of the East Lake Club by defeating Richard Waters, 1 up, 19 holes, in the tournament finals. Waters is 13 years old.

Harrison had a four-hole advantage at the turn, but Waters rallied on the back side to square the match at the 18th, being allmost on the green with his drive, a 175-yarder. However, he ran into trouble on the extra hole taking a 7 while Harrison won the match and the title with a 5.

For the 18 holes, Harrison had a total of 117 and Waters 118.

Giants Rap Phils Twice; Browns Win

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—(P)

The New York Giants swept a two-night double-header with the Philadelphia Phils tonight, 4-0 and 6-2. Bill Voiselle fashioned a three-hitter to shutout the Phils in the first game. In the second game, Leon (Red) Treadway's triple in the third inning scored Ray Berres with the Giants' first run. They added two more in the fifth and chased Dick Mauney to cover with a two-run outburst in the seventh.

College Park Expects Good 1945 Eleven

By RUSSELL MUSGRAVE

College Park High school's prospects for a good 1945 football team are excellent despite the return of four regulars from last year's squad.

Thirty-five boys turned out for practice two weeks ago and have progressed in their training to the scrimmage stage. Coach Harlan Harris is sacrificing some available weight in the line for speedier but lighter players.

Fullback Ray Thomas and Tailback Billy Bateman are returning regulars who will keep opposing tacklers busy. Letterman Fred Newsome and Jake Brown at wingback and quarterback, respectively, round out what looks like a really good backfield.

Other backfield players likely to see action are Paul McGuire, Bill Wynn and Allen Sloan.

In the line are two returning regulars, Chester Hurley and James McLendon, guards. Hurley is being shifted to center this year. Marion Slade and McLendon will probably start at guard.

Roy Teal and Archie Abbt will start at tackle, with Arthur and Billy Cruise, Frank Jett and Robert Adams ready to step in anytime.

Five good ends are battling for starting assignments—Van Howell, Charles Vinson, Billy Trimble, Bill Hall and W. L. Sprattling. Howell, Trimble and Hall have a little edge on the others.

Other potential line candidates are Jack Groover, Donald Creel and Alton Thompson.

The Rams open their 1945 football season against Hapeville, Sept. 7, on the Russell field.

Crackers Capture Slugfest, 4 to 12

By JACK TROY

PELICAN STADIUM, New Orleans, La., Aug. 27.—Atlanta's Crackers won the initial skirmish of the battle of New Orleans, 14 to 12, and lengthened their lead to eight full games tonight.

Chattanooga's loss to Mobile brought the Crackers one game closer to officially clinching the 1945 pennant.

Tonight's game was played in the name of baseball but as such, was a gross case of misrepresentation. The Crackers had a six-run lead in the eighth and then saw it disappear as the Pelicans rallied for six runs.

BURROWS INEFFECTIVE Stout Johnny Burrows failed in his attempt to win his 18th game of the season. Shelby Kinney was wild and ineffective in relief. Forrest Thompson, who just joined the club today, didn't last as a successor to Kinney and, finally, Barney Cook took over and saved the game in the ninth.

Although the Crackers rallied for three runs and apparently had

CREEDEN THROUGH Connie Creeden, a .367 hitter and one of the top five in the Southern League, sat out last night's game because of reported differences with the management on a private matter, and brought this terse comment from Manager Ki Ki Cuyler:

"Creeden will not play any other game for us even if it should cost us the pennant. He has been most unco-operative."

Creeden didn't put on a uniform and sat behind the Cracker dugout. LeGrant Scott took his place in right field.

Creeden was to report to Morgan Prep School in Petersburg, Tenn., after the New Orleans series to take over his duties as football coach there, anyway.

Sewed up the game again in the ninth, the Pelicans kept hammering. They scored a run and had the bases loaded. Cook, made Marcus Carrola hit into a double play.

The Crackers almost gave the game away through errors, they wobbled pitching, but they made the grade, thanks to Cook. The win was credited to left-handed Forrest Thompson, who won 21 for Mooreville, of the North Carolina State League.

SCOTT STARS Hitting star for the Crackers was LeGrant Scott, with five for six. New Orleans virtually used the roster tonight. A total of 17 players appeared in the game.

Forrest Thompson, who won 21 for Mooreville, of the North Carolina State League, was the winning pitcher. He pitched a complete game, allowing only one run and two hits.

A large crowd hung around to the last tonight hoping to see the home lead subdued. But the Pelicans just didn't have it.

Farris Elders hurled Nick's cafe of Rome to the 1945 state softball crown last night at Marietta when he bested Earl Varchminn of the Columbus Manufacturing Company in the finals, 1 to 0.

The Macon Y. W. C. A. ten succeeded Lorelei Ladies, winner for the past two years, as Frances Couch baffled the Sports Arena Blues in the girls' finals, 3 to 1. Lorelei was eliminated in the district competition.

Elders' success was based mainly on the timely hitting of John Hollars and Jimmy Thacker in the fourth stanza of the finals. Hollars, former Chicago Bear football pro, singled and Thacker came through with a double for the winning marker. This was the third time during the tour that Thacker's hit has been responsible for a 1 to 0 triumph for the Rome ten.

The Rome team will represent Georgia in the regional tourney at St. Petersburg, Fla., beginning Friday.

The Macon YWCA ten won the women's crown when Frances Couch bested Janice Scogin in a hurling duel, although the ace hurler of the Blues' staff was not to blame for the loss, as only one hit was racked up by the winners in the fourth when they scored all of their runs. Errors contributed heavily to the scoring.

Each hurler gave up just four blows, but the losers committed six miscues apiece. Pitcher Couch, with two for two, and Daniels and Harris accounted for the Macon team's hits, and Head, who had a double, Lancaster, Scogin and Dora Castleberry garnered one hit each for the Blues.
